Mrs. Tyler referred to Mr. Dewar's remarks about the home and gave to me she considered some of the animals for a good home, things which the Home Bureau stands for. The first of these was a lamb. The Bureau is doing its best in this work, a girl, said she it is equally needed in the rural sections. Speaking of child labor in it she said that more care is taken to children in the cities than in the rural sections. It is essential for you can refund seeds and money, but you cannot refund labor.

Organization Necessary.

The speaker said organization is necessary if the work was to go on. This is the time, said she, to protect farm organizations—farmers and women who are doing their best to put farm organizations on a business." She asked the audience to give up everything before

Protect Your Teeth,
Say Local Dentists

County Dental Society Tells How to Protect Teeth—Will Conduct Course Next Year for Best Set of Teeth.

As a part of the National Child Health Week program, the Ulster County Dental Society has prepared the following paper, to be delivered in all of the city's public schools during the week:

This week has been dedicated by the President of the United States as National Child Health Week for the purpose of teaching children how to protect and better their health.

As our health and good appearance depends upon our teeth, this paper has been prepared.

At school age, more children suffer from bad teeth than any other defect. Children with bad teeth, decayed and abscessed, cannot do good school work. The time to start to keep your teeth in better condition and to become better fitted for your school work, is now.

The one big thing in life, no matter how bad the times, is good health.

Good health and bad teeth can never be partners.

Just what is dental decay? It is the work of the little germs that inhabit the mouths of most of us. They go about seeking a place to rest, and usually find it in some crack, crevice, or rough spot on the tooth surface. A hiding place of which they are particularly fond is the space between the teeth. There they are fairly secure. It is difficult for the cleaning brush to reach such an out of the way place, but it can be done and should be mastered. When they have settled down to housekeeping the little germs do not rest at all, but start work at once, so that the part of the tooth where they live becomes softened. This allows the germs to work further down.

But they are very shy about all this. Unless the dentist has an opportunity to hunt for them, they may not be found until they have gone so far into the tooth that they reach the part called pulp. When they get that far they usually have a battle with some other little fellows in the blood, known as phagocytes. Sometimes one wins and sometimes the other, but usually the dentist needs to be called to help win the war for the phagocytes. If he is called too late, the tooth is lost.

Then how are we going to prevent bad teeth as a result of this decay?

First—By eating the proper foods that go to build strong teeth. The best foods for strong teeth are: Milk, green vegetables, fresh fruit, dark bread and coarse cereals.

Second—By keeping the teeth clean. The three most important things to help keep the teeth clean are: Food that is hard to chew; a good tooth brush of your own; tooth paste or tooth powder that is not gritty.

Teeth should be brushed at least twice a day with tooth paste or powder.

Brush your teeth carefully, up and down.

Brush all sides of your teeth and gums.

Rinse your mouth thoroughly with salt and water or good mouth wash.

Wash your brush with hot water and hang it up to dry.

If brushes fall out or are too short, but a new brush.

Look at your teeth in a mirror to be sure they are clean.

Boys and girls should realize the importance of good teeth for the following reasons: To have clean teeth, to be better looking, for good health, to be able to eat, for better digestion, to prevent toothaches, to prevent bad breath, to prevent teeth being pulled out, to prevent speech defects, to prevent more absences from school, to enable you to do better school work, to enable you to get a 100 per cent card, to enable you to be promoted, to help get a job, to save money in the long run, to ensure success, to ensure happiness, to ensure long life.

So much happiness and success depends upon good teeth, well cared for.

There was once a high school basketball star who was the cause of his team losing the game because he happened to have an abscessed tooth that ached so he could not play the game properly.

Then there was the girl with a beautiful singing voice, who had to give up a rich future because she lost her teeth, due to neglect.

Next year, the Ulster County Dental Society will conduct a contest to see which boy and girl in Kingston schools has the best set of teeth and prizes will be awarded to the winners. So, boys and girls, take care of your teeth and when next year comes around, have your teeth in shape to win a prize.

Frog Nests in Trees

A certain South American tree frog builds its nest in the trees. Two leaves are joined together to form a cup for the eggs. The young remain in this nest until they develop internal gills and then they drop into underlying water to go through their next stage of development.

Doctor's Advice On PILES

Internal Treatment Best and Guaranteed—He Says

When Dr. J. A. Leachman, who has given many years of his life to the study of the treatment of piles, says and has proved that the right and best way to gain freedom from the annoying trouble is to take one of his "Pile Cure" tablets three times a day—may go on believing that he is a quack and a charlatan.

Remember the cure and your pain will be gone in a matter of hours. Your life of what has been a hell will be a heaven.

And that is why the millions of men and women who have tried Dr. Leachman's "Pile Cure" tablets and then if your pain does not go away or does not disappear—get your money back. The cure is guaranteed.

40 OUT OF HUNDRED
CRIMINALS UNDER 25

One Out of Every Five Is Less Than 21 Years.

Washington.—American youth was held chiefly responsible for the nation's crime in statistics released by the Department of Justice.

Forty per cent of the crime records examined by the bureau of investigation of the department pertained to persons less than twenty-five years of age.

"Persons nineteen years of age still lead the nation's crime procession as revealed by statistics compiled from finger-print cards received in the United States bureau of investigation from January 31, 1928, to March 31, 1929," the department announced.

Many in Their Teens.

"Trending hard on the basis of these delinquents in the last year of their teens are persons under twenty-one years of age who count for one of each five whose arrest records were examined."

During the first three months of 1929 the bureau of investigation examined 80,750 arrest records as evidenced by the finger-print cards received by its identification division.

"In the past," the summary asserted, "the number of persons arrested who were nineteen years of age has exceeded the number arrested for any other age group, and the same is true for the first quarter of 1929."

The following table shows the percentage of the total number of persons arrested who were under twenty-one years of age in those instances where the proportion of youthful offenders was high:

Automobile theft	43.2
Burglary	38.3
Robbery	37.3
Rape	34.7
Larceny	33.4

These figures indicate that automobile theft is an offense which is particularly characteristic of youth, and so also is the offense of burglary, although in somewhat less pronounced degree.

The survey showed that persons under twenty-five years of age constituted 40 per cent of those whose arrest records were examined, and persons between twenty-five and twenty-nine accounted for approximately 19 per cent of the total number arrested.

Persons in this group, however, were not predominant among the arrests for any particular offense.

Many Robbery Charges.

Other details of the report follow: "Almost one-third of the total arrests were for disorderly conduct, drunkenness, and vagrancy, or for suspicion and investigation. The arrests on these charges total 24,842. Of the remaining arrests over one-half were for the offense of larceny-theft, burglary, robbery, and assault. The number of arrests for each of these offenses is as follows:

"Most of the persons arrested were males, females numbering only 5,221 (6.5 per cent). For the offenses of larceny and homicide and violations of the liquor laws, the percentage of females arrested to the total number of females arrested exceeded the corresponding percentages for males."

Coyotes Called Menace to Alaska Fur Animals

Denver.—The greatest problem of the United States bureau of biological survey in Alaska is the destruction of fur and game animals by the coyote, Hugh W. Terhune, chief representative of the bureau in Alaska and executive officer of the Alaska game commission, said here.

Terhune stopped in Denver to confer with local representatives of the bureau while on the way from Washington to Juneau, Alaska.

"The coyotes entered Alaska from the Canadian side 15 years ago," he asserted, "and have rapidly spread to the furthest points of the territory."

"Alaska developed a bounty system for the eradication of coyotes, but cooperative paid-hunter work was dropped last year because of the lack of money. We are unable to use poison because of the danger to fur-bearing animals and trapping is at present our only resource."

Brings Coffin of Wife From Coast on His Car

Port Huron, Mich.—After driving almost continuously for four days and nights, with his wife's body in a coffin on top of his automobile, Walter Hadmond arrived here from India, Calif.

The wife, Mrs. Helen M. Hadmond, died in India. A former Port Huron resident, she had lived in California with her husband for two years. Deprived to have the body buried here and financially unable to bring it by train, Hadmond made the trip by motor.

Pigeon Returns After Absence of 18 Months

Watkins, N. Y.—A racing pigeon owned by Richard Kissel, nineteen, released in Warren, Pa., in the summer of 1931 is back in its loft after an absence of 18 months.

The bird was seen hovering over the loft throughout the day, but failed to enter until after dark, then, perhaps, on instinctive change made in the structure since the day it was taken away as an entrant in a race of the Waterloo Racing Pigeon association.

Flower-Trimmed or With Feathers

By CHERRIE NICHOLAS

FLOWERS are flourishing in fashionland. Even so early as in mid-season we began to have hints of a flower or two to be seen. The first flower-garmented hats made their appearance timidly. These for the most part adhered to the tailored model, such as for instance a sailor with perhaps a band of little velvet flowers very primly encircling the crown or perhaps with a wee bandeau of posies next to the hair.

They were adorable, as they brought a breath of spring, and the reaction to them was so favorable Paris milliners were encouraged to follow them up with a more pretentious gesture. There began to arrive from abroad most ravishing little toque-and-boutonniers sets made all of violets, or rose petals, or gardenias or, perhaps, velvet posies in variegated coloring.

The latest arrivals from certain French ateliers introduced a most charming idea, that of flower necklaces which are worn like leis. We are illustrating one such centered in the group pictured. The flowers in this instance are white camellias for both the wreath about the hat and the necklace. Among the models of her spring collection Jane Blanchot also is offering an interesting lei-formed of white linen hyacinths with a black ribbon across the back of the neck. This is shown with a toque of novelty black straw with matching hyacinths bordering the left side.

Most of the flower toques are designed in colors to form a perfect harmony with the costume, with the exception of the all-white sets which are effective with black or whatever the color may be. We are showing two flower toques here. The ensemble at the top to the right, is made of violets with a matching corsage. The matron of honor who wore it had on a lovely light blue lace gown. For the bride a set was created which consisted of a toque of white rose petals and a muff which was a perfect heart-shaped formed of identical petals. These heart-shaped flower muffs are the newest floral for brides.

The dainty toque below to the left in the picture is half and half of navy straw and purple velvet pansies. It tops a dress of Eleanor blue, the hyacinth tone of this blue being a perfect complement to the rich purple tones of the flowers.

The call of the mode for military effects is answered in dashing cosack hats and fez turbans whose height and severity of line is something for which we are expected to acquire a taste. Note the two models below in the picture. They are indicative of this new style trend. There is no end to other fantasy hats which are distinguishing the season's hats. They include every type from simple quilts and brush effects to all sorts of intriguing novelties.

Market Authority To Be Appointed

Considerable interest is developing among the farmers of Ulster county in the lower Hudson regional market district and the market authority to be created according to an act passed by the legislature and signed by the governor recently. This market district will include the counties of Delaware, Dutchess, Orange, Putnam, Rockland, Sullivan, Ulster and Westchester. The law calls for the creation of a board of directors, to be known as the "Lower Hudson Regional Market Authority". The board of supervisors in each of the above named counties will appoint two of the directors, one of which must be a man deriving his living from the farm. This board will be a public corporation, the members of which must serve without compensation. It will have the duty of studying the market needs of the region and take the necessary steps to establish the needed markets, if it is found advisable and of advantage to the producers and consumers of the area.

On Wednesday the Farm Bureau managers of the counties involved, met at the Governor Clinton Hotel in Kingston, and had the entire matter explained by representatives of the State Department of Agriculture and Markets and the State College of Agriculture. The Farm Bureau is very much interested in this market development, because it properly organized will afford another outlet for the produce of the valley. By handling shipped-in produce also, buyers from distant points will be attracted to the market, as soon as they find out that their needs can be met in this market.

The marketing committee of the various Farm Bureaus will have a meeting Thursday, May 11, at the Governor Clinton Hotel here, to further discuss the proposed regional market.

Howe About:

Watching Out The Alarm Bell The Youth Movement

By ED HOWE

LOVE of wives for husbands is a thing, but Sileria expresses the belief in his memoirs that it is more stable than the love grown children about parents.

Sileria mentions with approval and thankfulness that his third wife once said to him that the bluntness with which he was called on daily for money with which to pay household expenses, and the hard way in which he was compelled to earn all his money, excited her pity, and caused her to resolve to be more frugal in her expenses.

Sileria adds a note (page 82, 2nd vol.), that none of his grown children ever said an equally agreeable thing to him.

Another Great Man has gone to the dogs. The trouble seems to be he didn't watch out on his way up.

In climbing, one must be constantly careful; see to it that every round above is as sound as those below which carried him safely.

And such care is always easier than a fall.

I do not believe Samuel Insull was a rogue, but became careless as he climbed, and developed dangerous conceit.

I cannot understand how any man, intelligent enough to fully realize what a man necessarily is, can become conceited.

In youth and age only natural things have impressed me.

And natural things have impressed me only because of the power behind them to force my acceptance.

As a young man I was often ashamed because of youthful incompetence and judgment; because those older daily demonstrated more capability as a result of longer experience. In learning my trade I never doubted the foreman's greater ability, and accepted his instructions as I accepted the suggestions of the older men in the same shop.

I have never been able to understand the Confidence of Youth of which so much is heard.

The other day I met an old fellow who had long lived luxuriously. He seemed "about all in," as the saying is, and told me of his ills. I said the only remedy I had ever found was taking care of myself. His reply impressed me.

"Yes," he said, "I know about that, but I did not begin early enough."

I send out another general alarm to be lost in the magnificent errors of today. Most people live like greedy children until something serious happens.

One should begin taking care of himself before the first alarm, which comes long before forty or fifty. The alarm bell began ringing very early in my life; I believe it does in the lives of most men, and beg them to pay attention earlier.

We frequently hear exclamations as to the Most Amazing Thing in the World. I think it is the dullness, inefficiency, carelessness and dishonesty of adults who are permitted to run at large, bear children and vote, although they refuse to learn the simplest lessons we teach children for not practicing.

Men who are careless, not honest, and do not pay their debts, have bad judgment in other respects; it has been discovered that one-fourth of all automobile drivers having collisions are listed as dead beats in their communities.

As moving an incident in life as I have ever heard is this: A young girl of average good family in my town married at seventeen, and had five children in seven years. One day she disappeared and has never been heard from since, except a letter she wrote her mother from a distant town, which said she couldn't stand the burden of being married. She found no fault with her husband saying he was as great a martyr as she had been. "You may be sure," she added, "there is not another man in the case; the man-lack in my life has been completely satisfied."

One of my greatest humiliations is the manner in which politicians make a fool of me; my helplessness in protecting myself from the harm they constantly do me. I frequently work myself into a frenzy about it, and splutter to others who are also angry, and hurt, but we get no relief out of our exchange of indignation.

Some one excited us long ago by declaring we were not being treated right. The people were never promised, by any real authority, anything they are not getting.

I lately tried to read a book about Abyssinia, the author having traveled extensively in that strange country. But he lacks judgment; he devotes most of his pages to "jokes."

Mark Twain, best of our modern humorists, was frequently dreary while trying to be "funny." Books of humor are almost as rare now as books of poetry, so many serious things having developed requiring serious consideration.

OPEN DIPLOMACY.

The "open diplomacy" openly arrived at by Woodrow Wilson after the World War, is probably an impossible ideal. In international dealing as in business dealing, there are occasionally things which must be done quietly in order to be done at all. Quietness or secrecy may be necessary in the first stages of negotiation. But after that, openness is desirable, and even essential, in these days.

This modern method is exemplified in the inter-governmental conversations now proceeding in Washington.

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister MacDonald talked privately for days, and then both of them proceeded to tell the world pretty much all about it. A still more striking example appeared in the case of French-American negotiations.

At their conclusion, President Roosevelt, with Herriot beside him, submitted to one of his regular quizzing ordeals with the press. In the presence of both French and American correspondents, he freely answered their questions as to all phases of the negotiations—not for quotation, but for their information.

So the press, at least, knows what is going on. And anything the anti press knows, and doesn't howl about, can probably be assumed as reasonably safe for the country.

This same spirit and method, if extended to other capitals, would do a lot of good. Governments must be open and above-board, and their people must know it.

WAR ON TAX-DODGERS.

Delinquent taxes are the root of many troubles in many communities all over the country. When taxes are not paid, public treasuries get lower and lower and sometimes quite empty. That means public employees are not paid. That is the problem in Chicago today, where teachers and policemen and others have been unpaid anywhere from weeks to months. It is the problem in scores of other cities, villages and townships.

There are two classes of tax delinquents: Those who cannot pay and those who could, but who refuse to do so. These last are selfishly taking advantage of a cruel situation. According to Melvin Traylor of Chicago, at least 50 per cent of the overdue taxes, amounting to $271,000,000, could be paid within 60 days if the authorities had legislative sanction to bring effective pressure to bear on the second class of delinquents.

The Chicago situation is much in the public eye because of the city's size, the contrast between its Century of Progress plans and its impoverished condition otherwise, and because it has been airing the problem a little longer than most other places. Yet the problem is almost universal. The tax-dodgers have been dodging too successfully everywhere. It is time to find ways to compel them to do their duty for the sake of their whole communities.

SCIENTIFIC ASTROLOGY.

Maybe there's something in astrology, after all. Not all that astrologers have claimed, of course, but at least a little something. A popular writer on scientific subjects says there is arising a science which might be called "the new astrology," as a result of recent astronomical discoveries. Dr. W. J. Humphreys, physicist of the United States Weather Bureau, says:

"Our earth is in the midst of gravity fields, electrical fields and magnetic fields. It is bombarded by electrons and alpha particles shot out of the sun and other stars as well. The cosmic rays, whose exact nature is not known, bombard the earth from outer space. Undoubtedly there are other radiations which we have not yet tracked down."

It has been found that the sun and stars have many curious effects on earthly conditions. Scientists at least radio waves. The position of the moon in the sky affects radio reception. The planets, too, may have some such effect. And if there are such effects registered on material forces here, why may not influences from heavenly bodies affect our minds and lives? The idea is not altogether crazy. But don't start yet believing everything in the old astrology books. We are still very far from charting these subtle forces.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

CAUSE OF GOTTSIE

It is the balance wheel which regulates the speed of your watch so that it will keep the correct time.

It is the thyroid gland in the neck which regulates the speed of your body processes so that they will do their work at the proper rate. If they were to work too rapidly your heart would beat too many times to the minute and you would breathe more rapidly; in fact you would do everything so fast that you would become very thin—"worn to a shadow." If the processes did not work rapidly enough you would become slow in body and mind, and increase in weight.

Nature always keeps ahead of our needs so the thyroid gland always has a certain amount of what is called "colloid" material, resembling glue, stored within it. When a boy or girl is growing very rapidly, about the time of puberty, or when there is any extra demand on the system for increased work, less room is taken up by this colloid material and the cells of the thyroid gland enlarge and are able to manufacture more juice—thyroxin.

Thyroxin is the substance that drives or speeds up the body processes.

When there is no further need for an increased supply of this thyroid juice, then the cells become smaller, and an increased amount of this colloid material is again stored in the gland. Thus the gland may enlarge at times and yet be quite normal.

When the gland remains large or grows larger, it is called goitre, and there are many names for the various forms or changes that take place in the gland according to whether the colloid or glue like material increases, or the natural cells become thicker and more fibrous.

These changes are all believed to be due to something which keeps stimulating the thyroid gland into action—infection, shock, worry, or emotional disturbances of any kind.

Thus we find that an enlarged thyroid gland which has the heart beating as high as 120 times to the minute, instead of 72, may come down to normal with a few months of rest and physical rest.

At times, iodine is the usual treatment and less rest is needed.

The use of the X-ray has lately come into more general use with excellent results.

In the very severe cases, your family doctor will recommend surgery—removing part of the gland—as the only means of saving life.

New Paltz Normal School Junior Prom

New Paltz, May 4.—There were 300 in attendance at the annual junior prom of the Normal School held in the gymnasium on Saturday night, April 29. Those in the receiving line were Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence H. Vandenberg and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar V. Beebe. Walter Joy, class president, and his guest, Miss Smith, Mr. Beebe is the class faculty adviser. Patrons and patronesses were Dr. and Mrs. Vandenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Beebe and Dean Miss Grace MacArthur. Dancing was from nine until one. Ward Harrison's orchestra furnished the music. The decorations were to represent a Venetian festival. The predominant colors were blue and gold. From the ceiling green lights were suspended and also hung along the side walls. The class officers are: President, Walter Joy; vice president, Mildred Jones; treasurer, Julia Birmingham; secretary, Doris Cohen. All the guests were presented with favors and programs in red and white. A special prize, a large sized invitation identical with those received by the guests, was awarded. The model invitation, done in the class colors, red and white, was made by Miss Minnie Berg of Beacon, a student of the school. Miss Charlotte Tamney was in charge of the refreshment committee and Rita Brown of the decorations. Among the alumni present were Isabelle Barrett, Carolyn Cramer, Mary Alford, Helen Brown of Beacon, Wilfred Fitchett, Blanche Brooks, Elizabeth Haybrook, Anna Cuccia of Poughkeepsie, Eleanor Van Buren, Helen Gibney, Ellen Powers, Marjorie Stevens, Florence Seward, Edith Newkirk, Robert Canolly of New Paltz, Adelaide Sullivan, Josephine Wayland and Betty Peterson.

Students attending were: Gertrude Silber, Katherine Shields, Betty Sheeklette, Clara Schouberger, May Owens, Mildred Creek, Winifred Overton, Betty Wood, Margaret Morahan, Marian Harris, Constance Mathew, Warren Terwilliger, Elizabeth Tasker, Lucille Smith, James Sherman, Mary Sharp, Marion Scofield, Dorothy Ryan, Mildred Ross, Rodney Jones, Anna Powers, Emily Parry, Dorothy Parلمان, Florence Ostling, Helen Osborne, Roberta Newins, Mary Nelson, Edythe Moore, Anna Monroe, Evelyn Minnerick, Donald Meagher, Evelyn Marshall, Charlotte Tamney, Janet Kohl, Helen McGlynn, Molly McGhee, Helen Cuccia, Elizabeth Connor, Ruth g. m. standard time.

 BAITING FATHER ROBERT

FATHER ROBERT looked down and hastily averted his eyes from the girl's face. He was not looking at her eyes, but at her cheeks, which were pale as paper. He was not looking at her hair, but at her neck, which was bare and white. He was not looking at her dress, but at her hands, which were clasped in front of her. He was not looking at her feet, but at her face, which was turned away from him. He was not looking at her body, but at her soul, which was in his hands. He was not looking at her life, but at her death, which was in his hands. He was not looking at her future, but at her past, which was in his hands. He was not looking at her hope, but at her despair, which was in his hands. He was not looking at her love, but at her hate, which was in his hands. He was not looking at her joy, but at her sorrow, which was in his hands. He was not looking at her peace, but at her war, which was in his hands. He was not looking at her light, but at her darkness, which was in his hands. He was not looking at her life, but at her death, which was in his hands. He was not looking at her future, but at her past, which was in his hands. He was not looking at her hope, but at her despair, which was in his hands. He was not looking at her love, but at her hate, which was in his hands. He was not looking at her joy, but at her sorrow, which was in his hands. He was not looking at her peace, but at her war, which was in his hands. He was not looking at her light, but at her darkness, which was in his hands. Mr. collector to succeed himself. One taxpayer voted his opposition to the hiring of married teachers. The report of the trustee, as read at the meeting, was duly accepted. High School transportation was acted favorably upon.

Tennis Vanderbilt, prominent New York city architect who has a summer home on the mountain road, is reported as being ill at his home in the city. The Vanderbilt place here was formerly known as the William Bogart farm.

On May 3, 1933, Shokan people traveling to Kingston found the Plank Road between the Widow Keater's farm and the Higginsville bridge closed to traffic and were obliged to detour by way of Hurley. The road was closed by Contractor McNamee pending construction of a new pavement from West Hurley east to the city line.

Troop No. 24 of Boy Scouts will hold a candlelight ceremonial in their meeting room in the Reformed Church hall on Friday evening, May 12. A new member will be taken into the local troop at this meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Atkins of the east end of the village, have returned from an extended visit in New York city. Mr. Atkins reports having noted no visible business improvement in the big city during his stay there.

The Tice-Tungach road near the Chase summer homes is being reconditioned under the direction of Foreman Alex Hamilton. Another crew of town road workers is improving the upper Bolesville highway, with Elmer Bedell of Shokan in charge of the work.

At the Ashokan school meeting Tuesday evening, Lewis Thiel was re-elected trustee for a third term; Mrs. Elvora Slicker was re-elected collector and Herman Morris was made clerk. One resident of the district expressed the opinion that only those students who were financially unable to pay their transportation should be transported free, but the measure again received favorable action. Mrs. Carolyn Lasher came up from Brooklyn to attend the school meeting.

The rain of Wednesday served to give the grass in meadow and pasture land a good start. The prevailing winds of the past few days had dried the surface of the ground out considerably, so that the grass was beginning to look a bit stunted. Now, however, the prospects for good early pasturage seem assured.

Mrs. Henry Wells of the west end of the village on Monday returned from a Kingston hospital, where she had been undergoing treatment during the past two weeks.

On May 4, 1933, the funeral took place of Mrs. Anna Piehop, a respected resident of the old village of Olive City. Mrs. Bishop's husband was a well-known Civil War veteran, who in waterworks reconstruction days located in the new village of Brodhead.

Charles Green has disposed of his stock of food and flour and is giving up his business to re-enter farming. Several years ago, in response to a general demand here for a good food store, Mr. Green put in a stock and since that time his trade has grown to the extent that he employed two men at his warehouse near Hogsback. Customers from all over Olive and many sections of adjacent towns patronized the Green store. Mr. Green has one of the best tilled farms in the north reservoir section and doubtless will equal his previous successes in the raising of berries, fruits and vegetables.

Although the spillway spectacle down at the reservoir has ceased to exist, the fishing attraction remains, and each day sees scores of men and boys lined up along the shore in the vicinity of the dividing weir.

DRY BROOK

Dry Brook, May 4.—Mr. and Mrs. John Ballard and son, Marlon, of Fleischmanns, visited Mrs. Stella Ballard one day last week.

Margaret Stewart spent Wednesday night of last week with Esther Close of Arena.

Kingdon Gould, also Mr. and Mrs. Jay Gould, spent the week-end at Jay's home, Forge Cottage.

The Rev. and Mrs. MacLaren called on parishioners in this place last week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Bransland, son and daughter, called on little Donald Graham, who broke his leg about three weeks ago and still has to lie with his leg elevated. Mrs. Bransland brought him a canary.

Miss Mary Cousins of Long Island spent the week-end with her friend, Mrs. George Armstrong, Sr., making the trip in a new Ford.

The many friends of S. D. Todd were shocked to hear of his illness, but are glad to learn he is on the road to recovery in the Margaretville Hospital.

Robert Leal and son, Stanley, of Cross River, were callers in this place Monday. They were on their way home, having been called to Turnwood by the illness of Mr. Leal's mother, Mrs. Katherine Leal, who is having pneumonia. All are glad to hear she is on the road to recovery.

Mrs. O. A. Todd, Mrs. Elizabeth Fairbairn and Mrs. Grover Kittle assisted with the household duties at Forge Cottage while the Goulds were present.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ackerly of Borina Center were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Graham Sunday. Mr. Ackerly is a brother of Mrs. Graham.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Blythe, Mrs. Emma Slaven and Mrs. Susan Munsell of Roxbury, also Mr. and Mrs. Smith Ballard, son, Ivan, and daughter, Iona, also Marshall Slaven or Voge called on Mrs. Stella Ballard Sunday.

Cond-Graben, motored to Norwich Sunday bringing his sister, Mrs. Henry Gray, back with him for a visit among her friends and relatives in Kingston.

The W. C. T. U. meeting Saturday was not very largely attended as a number of the members were either working or away. It was decided to adjourn until later in the season. The county institute will be held May 18 in New Paltz. It is hoped some delegates will be able to attend.

His Stories Won Top Ranking

Stories written by Francis A. Jamieson, Associated Press correspondent at Trenton, N. J., gave to the world much of the news of the Lindbergh kidnapping case. Jamieson, first to report its tragic climax, received the 1932 Pulitzer prize for his reportorial work in covering the kidnapping. Some of his most important wire stories appear in the background.

Shunks Can't Express Joy
Those who have tried raising shunks as pets find that these animals can make very satisfactory ones but are limited in that they have no way of expressing joy. Except for an occasional little squealing or grunting noise they are practically voiceless.

Fashions by Eleanor Gunn

What Is Left of the Masculine Mode

New York—All that is left of the widely publicized mannish vogue for women is a few little tailored details. The preference of a Hollywood star or two for Tuxedos and extreme masculine attire did not affect the judgment of a nation of sensible women. They did borrow a leaf from the tailor's book, however, and decide to help themselves to cuffs and shirt bosoms and turned-down collars—you know things of that sort. It also seems quite likely that slacks will be worn at the beach, but the newest beach fashion is the beach dress, and that is alluring enough to take one's mind off one's newly acquired trousers.

The addition of buttons may be charged up to masculine influences too. The double breasted evening jacket and the single breasted coat are both hangovers from that short but hysterical night of mannish attire. Certainly no one could call the frock sketched mannish, yet in its amusing way it caricatures the mannish idea.

The padded shoulder is another mannish note which women seem to be loathe to relinquish. It is not as extreme as Schiaparelli's shoulder trays or some of the epaulets affected, but it is not far behind and falls in with the military line. Square shoulders remain even now that sheers have to be held out by artificial means to achieve them.

While touches of lingerie have been worn for months and talked about long before that, they have been associated in one's mind with daytime fashions. Evening frocks now have turn-over collars, and all manner of softening lingerie touches, as for instance white collars on dark dresses, and cuffs, even though they are nearer the shoulder than the wrist. The soft black dress with crisp white neck details, or the stiff black dresses with soft white lace details both are suggested for the woman who wants something a bit different. Incidentally, both are inspired ideas for the woman who has a make-over problem on her hands.

Prints Under Cover

Prints are the accepted summer fashion of the American public—both a mass and an exclusive fashion—and the character of these warm weather fabrics demand a distinctive type of coat.

So there are sheer woolsens, both smooth and rough rustic, the former used on the double, the latter lined with matching silk crepe; both ideal warm weather types. These are available in both the youthful swaggy coats and the belted wrap-up silhouettes. For women who seek the very sporty coat there are heavier, lacy constructions that require no lining.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

Eyelet embroidered frocks in brown, navy blue or deep rich reds are being shown as possibilities for immediate wear, in short sleeves dresses.

Reboux uses straws, including wide, shiny plaided weaves. The fabrics include brocades of Persian designs.

There are quantities of feather trimmings on the toques and much turquoise, sometimes combined with lacquer red—Ches Reboux.

ZENA COUNTRY CLUB

PLANNING ACTIVITIES.

The regular monthly meeting of the Zena Country Club will be held Friday, May 5.

The regular bi-weekly dance will be held at the club on Saturday, May 6, with music as usual by Hi Henry and His Aristocrats. Refreshments will be on sale in the club kitchen.

The three act comedy to be presented by the Zena Players is progressing very nicely and the date of the presentation will be announced soon.

The play, "Baron Boloney," is extremely funny and it is funny how many embarrassing situations can occur in a boarding house for tourists and the hot dog stand, both of which are run by Baron Hausmann and his winsome daughter.

A woman, Miss Sarah Van Hoesen Jones, was named one of Michigan's six master farmers in 1932.

OUR DAILY PATTERNS

A Stylish Frock for Youthful Figures

7859. Very distinctive and altogether graceful and becoming is this design. The right front is cleverly shaped over the left front. The waistline is simple, and the skirt lines smartly straight. The sleeve has modified fullness at the elbow above a deep fitted cuff. Very chic is the tie trimming that slips in and out on the front. Printed crepe in a new bias pattern was used in this instance. One could have plain crepe, with piping and trimming in contrast. Black and white or red and white silk with the trimming in white or red for contrast is suggested. Cotton sheers, or pique is also nice.

Designed in 6 sizes: 14, 16, 18 and 20, with corresponding bust measurement 33½, 35, 36½ and 38, also in 40 and 42. Size 18 will require 4 yards of 39 inch material. The tie trimming will require a piece 22 inches long and 12 inches wide. The width of the dress at the lower edge is 1 2/3 yard.

A pattern for this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

1 tablespoon chowchow
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1/4 cup salad dressing
Flake tuna with fork. Mixing with fork, add rest of ingredients. Chill and serve on lettuce.

Swiss Steak
Pound round 1/2 teaspoon celery salt
1/4 cup flour 1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon salt 4 tablespoons fat
1/2 teaspoon paprika 1/2 cup water
Have steak cut one inch thick. Pound well on both sides and with back of knife pound flour into both sides. Sprinkle with seasonings. Heat fat in frying pan. Add and quickly brown steak. Add water and cover. Cook very slowly for 1 1/2 hours. Turn frequently to allow even cooking.

Apple Turnovers
1 cup flour 1 tablespoon cold water

"You can do a big wash for a family of 6 ...and still look fresh as a daisy"

HERE'S HOW YOU DO IT!

FIRST YOU MAKE A TUBFUL OF NICE, THICK, LIVELY RINSO SUDS

THEN YOU PUT ALL THE CLOTHES TO SOAK. WHILE THEY'RE SOAKING YOU CAN GO SHOPPING OR READ A FAVORITE BOOK

TWO HOURS LATER YOUR WASH IS READY TO HANG OUT. 4 OR 5 SHAPES WHITER THAN EVER! YOU DON'T NEED TO SOAK—RINSO SOAKS OUT THE DIRT

THIS GENTLE WAY WASHES CLOTHES LAST 2 OR 3 TIMES LONGER. IT'S SO EASY ON THE HANDS, TOO

SOAK your clothes in Rinso suds—instead of scrubbing them threadbare against a washboard. They'll come 4 or 5 shades whiter—they'll last 2 or 3 times longer! You'll save lots of money on clothes this gentle way—many women have saved $100 and more! The home-making experts of 316 leading newspapers—the makers of 40 famous washers—recommend these extraordinary Rinso suds.

Cup for cup, Rinso gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps. Rich, creamy suds, even in hardest water. Marvelous for dishes—grows green in a flash. Millions use Rinso for the wash, for the dishes, for all cleaning. Get the BIG package.

Sum of $536.16 to Be Given Relief; Indoor Circus Dispute Ends

Freeman March Final Settlement in Dispute with Promoters Over Room and Indoor Circus—W. H. Martin Landed For His Part to Admit.

Meeting in the city court room at the city hall Wednesday evening, the Freeman's committee that sponsored the circus at the armory last winter for the Volunteer Aid Committee, settled the prolonged question of damages and showed by a report that the amount of $536.16 is to be given to the charity organization.

Accompanying the financial report read at the meeting and given for publication, showing gross receipts of $5,017.25 and expenditures of $4,481.09, was a letter of commendation for William H. Martin, chairman of the Freeman's committee. The letter, signed by Mr. Martin for his untiring efforts, vigilance in looking after the financial interests of the Freeman, explained the reason for a previous report not having been made because the records were in the hands of Judge Bernard A. Callahan for use in the court action involving the Freeman, who were victorious, and the circus men, and thanked all who in any manner helped to make the benefit show a success.

Members of the various fire companies, who signed the letter, were James J. Costello, Cornell Hose No. 2; Ernie J. Cashman, Weiner Hose, No. 4; Joseph Corkery, Rapid Hose, No. 1; Willis Roe, Excelsior, No. 4; and J. A. Radell, Rescue Hook & Ladder, No. 2.

Mother's Cook Book

APPETIZING DISHES

IN THE spring and early summer green foods—fresh vegetables and fruit—are more appealing than more complicated foods. There are some roughage foods that are needed all the year round and an occasional use of bran in food, or taken in water as a drink, will keep the elimination good. For the children the bran may be given in small cakes, cookies and macaroons.

Bran Date Muffins.—Break two eggs into a mixing bowl and beat with an egg beater for two minutes; add two-thirds of a cupful of milk, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth cupful of sugar and one-fourth cupful of softened shortening. Add two teaspoonfuls of baking powder to one cupful of flour, add one cupful of bran, one-half cupful of dates cut fine, and one-half cupful of nuts cut fine. Mix all as usual and beat well. Bake in well greased muffin pans for twenty-five minutes.

Liver Sandwiches.—Rub cooked liver while hot through a sieve, season with salt and pepper and mix with three-fourths the amount of thinly sliced olives. Spread on buttered rye bread.

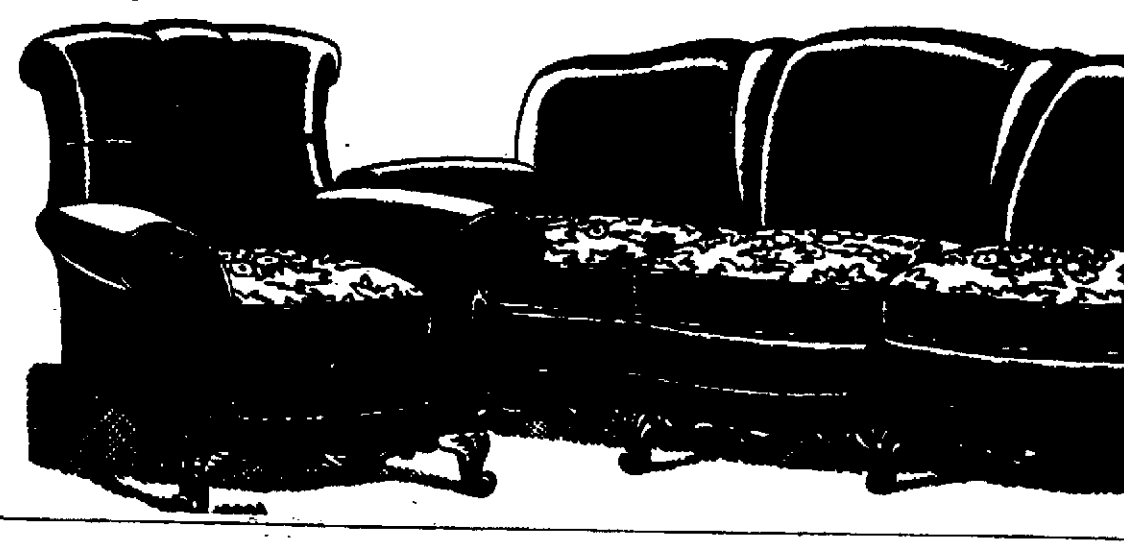

Calif's Liver Sandwich Spread.—Rub cooked liver with hard-cooked eggs through a sieve, using one pound of liver three hard-cooked eggs. Add one grated onion, salt and pepper to season. Mix well and spread on buttered bread. A layer of thinly sliced sour pickle will add to the sandwich.

At The Theatres

Kingston: "Caradee." Noel Coward's great stage success made into one of the greatest pictures of this or any year. Olive Brook as an upper middle class English officer leaves his wife (Diana Wynward) broken hearted as he goes to the Boer War. His wife returns starts a life of happiness for them, rearing two sons. But again fate steps in and both boys are taken from them, one in a maritime disaster and the other in the World War. But despite their sorrows the two parents carry on courageously to the end of a perfect picture. Olive Brook offers the best performance of her career and Diana Wynward's acting has made her a star in the movie world. Herbert Mundin and Una O'Connor, the butler and maid, display some wonderful acting. Besides forty featured players there are thousands in the cast. A great picture.

Orpheum: "American Madness" and "Western Limited." The first is a really good story of the depression times. The action covers a period of 24 hours, the entire period being crammed with exciting and dramatic happenings. Walter Huston gives a delightful performance. Pat O'Brien, Ray Johnson and Constance Cummings are also very good, but the picture itself is the real thing. The second, with Estelle Taylor as the featured player, offers plenty of action and many exciting Broadway: "Home Sweet Home." A fascinating Delano train ride from Paris to Rome. Stirring melodrama with robbery and murder. Some excellent comedy and splendid acting by the entire cast. Esther Ralston plays the leading feminine role with Conrad Veidt leading the male players. Good entertainment.

Tomorrow: Kingston, Same.

Organum: "No More Orphans." Carole Lombard as a rich young miss in love with a poor boy. Rather a shopworn plot but the splendid direction of this picture makes it superior to other pictures of rich-poor romances. Miss Lombard is excellent in her part as are Lyle Talbot, Louise Closser Hale and the rest of the cast. "High Speed" the screen in another of his thrill specials.

Broadway: Same.

CONCERT TONIGHT AT FLATBUSH CHURCH

The Little Choral Club of the Flatbush Reformed Church will present its second concert tonight at the Flatbush Church at 8:15. The club is under the direction of Roland Heermance. Sidney Cree of Elizabeth, N. J., is visiting friends in this village. Mr. Cree was a former resident here.

The Italian-American Meat Market on Main street has been discontinued after being in this place about one year. The Caskill market will continue business.

Mr. and Mrs. William Reilly of Franklin street, Kingston, spent Wednesday evening with relatives in this village. Mrs. Reilly was formerly Miss Lorna Heat of Clermont street.

Mrs. Edwin Schoonmaker of Main street is spending a few days in New York city and vicinity.

Floyd B. Garrison, who has been ill the past week, is again able to be at his duties in the National Bank.

Mrs. C. Eason of Post street has returned from Ithaca, N. Y., where she has been attending the P. T. A. Convention in Cornell University.

Leslie Fellows of New Paltz called on friends and relatives in this village on Monday.

Madame Lillian of First street has been in New York city the past few days on business.

Thomas Keeler of Osmung, N. Y., spent the past few days with his family on Market street.

Miss Lucretia Robinson of Barclay Heights has gone to New York city, where she will spend some time.

Harold Miller of Indianapolis, Ind., is spending some time with his father and sister on Russell street.

Mrs. Edward M. R. Little of Poughkeepsie spent Sunday with her mother on Washington avenue.

Major Irving V. A. Huie and wife of New York city called on friends in this place on Monday.

... a mayonnaise with
FLAVOR

flavor
that appeals to men, women and children alike

flavor
that makes potato salad or cold stew taste just right and gives Tartar sauce and Russian dressing new goodness

flavor
that brightens the taste of sea food and meats and takes the harsh "edge" from tart fruits

flavor
that combines deliciously with sandwich-filling

YOU may think that the only way to have mayonnaise with a pleasing flavor is to make it at home. But you'll change your mind when you taste Ivanhoe.

Here's a mayonnaise so subtly piquant, so rich and creamy, that it appeals to both men and women.

Of course, such flavor and creamy richness cannot be secured by ordinary ingredients and common methods of blending them. The recipe for Ivanhoe Mayonnaise always calls for the highest quality seasonings and extra egg-yolks. What's more, we have discovered a unique blending-method that always insures a perfect flavor-blend and ideal consistency.

Ivanhoe Mayonnaise comes to you with all its original fresh, creamy goodness guarded by the Ivanhoe seal of protection. The jar, when empty, is ideal to use as preserving-jars. Sold at good grocers in quart and pint. Ivanhoe Foods Inc., Auburn, N. Y.

Honey Bear's Difficulty
By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"I'm O. K.," said Jelly Bear, as he got up on his hind legs and held out his arms. "Now jump!" he called to Honey Bear.

But Honey Bear did not bend down far enough as she tried to get out of the window.

"Oh, this is dreadful!" growled Jelly Bear, as he saw that his dear Honey Bear was stuck between the ledge and the upper part of the window. "I should never have gone down first. I should have seen to it that she got out safely before I did."

"But you had to try the ladder," quipped Mr. Quacko, the Fire Chief. Jelly Bear began to weep. Great tears fell from his eyes down on his furry chest. Poor Honey Bear could not get back into the room, nor could she get any further out of the window.

The Ducks who were still in the upstairs room began to push her for all they were worth, and Mr. Quacko called for Willy Nilly to go up and help push, too, while he played the hose on the fire.

Willy Nilly now pushed Honey Bear with might and main and at last Honey Bear was released.

But she was pushed so hard that she knocked Jelly Bear down as she landed in his arms, and over they both rolled.

"Are you hurt? Are you bruised?" everyone shouted.

Honey Bear and Jelly Bear picked themselves up. They were frightened at first, but now they realized that they had not hurt themselves.

"We're all right," they both agreed after a moment or two. "Now let me play the hose," Jelly Bear added. "I've caused enough trouble. Maybe I can be of some help."

Sportsmen's Clubs Stocking Woods and Streams in County

Hunters and fishermen in Ulster county should find the woods and streams of Ulster county in better condition for their favorite pastime due to the work which is being carried on by the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster County in conjunction with the Conservation Department. A plan worked out some time ago by the Federated clubs of the county and approved by the Conservation Department has made possible a more equal distribution of fish and game in the county. By the establishment of a quota system whereby the member clubs get together and adopt a quota for each district of the county a more equal distribution of fish and game is assured. Both fish and game supplied by the Conservation Department for stocking purposes is placed on open or non-opened lands.

Thus far there has been distributed through the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs 300 cottontail rabbits, 125 varying hares, 80 adult pheasants and 271 young pheasants.

There are now ready for distribution 5,519 pheasant eggs and in addition to these eggs there is another allotment of 2,000 pheasant eggs which will be distributed directly by the Conservation Department to 4-H Club members.

In addition to the pheasants and pheasant eggs which will be distributed through the clubs there will be some which will be sent to individuals on the recommendation of the club.

E. M. Huben of the Rosendale Club as president of the federation this year is working for closer cooperation between the member clubs in order that the most possible benefit may be derived by the club members and the sportsmen of the county.

Ulster county was the first county in the state to become organized as a county unit in which all of the sportsmen clubs united as a federation. This plan met with the approval of the state conservation department to such an extent that the Ulster county plan has been adopted as a model plan for other counties.

The distribution of fish and game through this federation has resulted in better distribution throughout the county and also in sections of the county best adapted to a certain kind of game. By the establishing of the quota system for each individual club game and fish is supplied equally throughout the county instead of one or two clubs getting a majority of the county's allotment.

One illustration of the benefit of the federation is in the experimental work being done by the state in regard to quail. In the neighborhood of 150 quail will be distributed in the county during the early fall. Last year quail was sent out as an experimental proposition and the federation agreed as to the best adapted places for the distribution.

Quail were put out by the Ellenville Chapter of the "Leak" Walton League; Modona Rod and Gun Club; Walkill Rod and Gun Club and the Southern Ulster Rod and Gun Club. These clubs at a recent meeting of the federation reported on the progress of the quail in each locality and as a result the quail this year will again be put out in the same localities. After three years the state will make a careful survey of the localities to determine the success of failure of the plan to restock quail.

In a recent communication Gardiner Bump, superintendent of the bureau of game, writes the following in regard to the work of sportsmen's federations:

"Now that the excitement of completing out pheasant distribution has subsided and we have an opportunity to go over your recommendations carefully, I want to thank you for the efforts which you have made to see that your county's quota of pheasants and pheasant eggs finds its way into the hands of sportsmen sincerely interested in better hunting and fishing conditions in your county."

Have been much encouraged with the splendid cooperation which most of the County Federations, all of whom or Distributing committees have given us and we cannot but feel, as a result, thanks to the honest efforts of you and of your Federation to a fair and equitable distribution of game in your county, the sportsmen of your county will this year have received far greater benefit from the game which the state has been able to allot to you than ever before. Again let me express my appreciation of your most important cooperation. From our point of view, distribution has been handled far more efficiently, quickly and to the best interests of the average sportsman than ever before."

The distribution of fish will shortly be made and this will again be made on recommendation of the Federation.

DANCE OF GHOSTS REVIVED BY TRIBE

Religious Ceremony Once Ended in Bloody Campaign

Ellington, Mont.—The "ghost dance" a religious ceremony that spread like wildfire among Indians of the northern and western plains and ended in a bloody military campaign, still makes an occasional appearance in tribal gatherings.

The history of the dance presents a strange commentary on an Indian attempt to appropriate the benefits of a great religious revival among many tribes, experts on Indian lore say. Dressed in long beaded or beaded moccasins, painted with tribal and individual designs, the dancers carried the doctrine of a Plute Indian named Wovoka from Wovoka's home in Nevada as far east as Oklahoma and the Dakota. Brownish red staves on their foreheads and at the root of their hair were supposed to make the dancers recognizable to any "good spirit" acting under the Great Father. Wovoka was regarded as an Indian Messiah, and many old Indians still believe his teachings promised the long-predicted overthrow of the white man's rule.

Delegates from the northern Cheyenne, Dakota Sioux and Arapahoe tribes were sent to consult Wovoka. They returned with stories of the new faith. "You must not fight. Do no harm to anyone. Do right always," they counseled.

Yet from this pacific doctrine issued an extensive military campaign in 1890. White settlers purportedly linked local disturbances with the "ghost dancers" and called for troops. Sitting Bull, one of the most respected Indian chiefs, was killed when one of his followers fired on Indian policemen delegated to arrest the unarmed leader. More than 200 Indians were killed before troops restored peace.

Despite the bloodshed the tribes clung to their belief in Wovoka. The dances are seen but rarely by white men, but close students of the Indians claim they still pray and hope for fulfillment of Wovoka's prophecies.

Noted Wrestler Makes an Efficient Sheriff

Albany, N. Y.—Carroll (Pink) Gardner, generally recognized as one of the world's leading light heavyweight champions, has proven a success as sheriff of Schenectady county.

The state department of correction, in a report of inspection, commended Gardner for his administration of the affairs of the county jail. "The sheriff," the report declared, "devotes a large amount of personal attention to the management of the jail and seems to be making strenuous efforts to bring the jail up to the proper standards."

When not wrestling or tending to the duties of sheriff Gardner supervises a prosperous monument making business in Schenectady. Gardner's past activities during the last dozen years have taken him to all parts of the United States, Australia, and other countries.

Bow Bells Will Ring After 6 Years' Silence

London.—Bow bells will soon be heard again. London's most famous bells have been silent nearly six years because of the condition of the steeple and tower of the church of St. Mary-le-Bow, Cheapside, where one bell has hung nearly 200 years. Some of the bells, too, needed recasting.

The tower and steeple have now been strengthened and defective stone work replaced. Repairs to the bells are being carried out at Chroydon, and they will soon be in position again. Altogether $5,000 has been spent on repairs at this famous church.

Wolf Bite 37 Years Ago Brings End to Lawsuit

New York.—A wolf bite proved to Mrs. Marie Schukofski Whitney of Harrisburg, Pa., that Harry Whitney, famous Arctic explorer, is not her husband, or the father of her three grown children.

Hospital records showed Whitney was bitten by a wolf in Montana in 1894, at the exact time Mrs. Whitney said she was living with her husband in Steelton, Pa. The suit, in which George Gordon Battle represented Mrs. Whitney, was dismissed because the woman now admits she was wrong.

Levity And Lectures Marked Home Bureau Banquet Wednesday

they gave up their organization membership.

The Home Bureau is interested in education and is now supporting two scholarships at Cornell. In fact in all its varied activities, the Home Bureau is working for a more abundant home life, was Mrs. Taylor's closing thought.

Mrs. Mayo next presented Frank B. Moore, chairman of the county 4-H Club organization; Albert Kordt, Home Bureau Manager; and Mrs. Howard Lewis, who responded briefly.

One of the most pleasing features of the evening followed, a number of musical selections by the "Trio Originals," composed of Mrs. Raymond D. Gross, who was at the piano, Miss Gladys Hopper and Miss Ruth Neal. Responding to requests, the ladies sang "You Can't

JUST 46 POUNDS OF FAT GONE

Feels 20 Years Younger

"I surely can recommend Kraschka Salts. I reduced from 116 to 110 lbs. my natural weight and I feel 20 years younger. A pinch a day keeps the fat away." Mrs. Val Walker, Seattle, Washington (Dec. 28, 1932).

Once a day take Kraschka Salts—one half teaspoon in a glass of hot water first thing every morning. Besides losing fat SAFELY you'll gain in health and physical attractiveness—constipation and acid will cease to bother you! You'll feel younger—more active—full of ambition—clear skin—sparkling eyes. A jar that lasts a whole week costs but a trifle at any drug store in the world. Demand and get Kraschka and it can't be denied. It doesn't satisfy you—money back—Advt.

"Up to Heaven," "The Got These Blues" and gave an impression of a colored camp meeting, and closed with "Waiting with the Moon." The catchy music was written by Mrs. Gross and the songs were rendered in an exceptionally pleasing style by the quartet of excellent voices.

Calling attention to many of the important activities of the Home Bureau, which was said to be inaugurated and developed by the members of the extension work of the State College, Mrs. Mayo next presented Dr. Ruby Green Smith, from the State College of Home Economics at Cornell, state leader of home demonstration work.

Dr. Smith gave an interesting and instructive address on the importance and necessity of the Home Bureau work and the work of the state college lecturers. She referred to the early days of the Federation and recalled the first meeting when there were only about a dozen people present. Today, although during the past year there were 6,491 people who were unable to spare a dollar to keep up their membership, there are still 20,935 members of the Home Bureau. Despite the loss of membership the number being reached by Home Bureau work is the largest today of any time in its history.

These are times when the aid given by the state college workers is particularly needed and Dr. Green said that the heavy demands being made are indicated by the fact that she is receiving as high as 700 letters in one day.

Bureau Helps Women.

The Home Bureau, said the speaker, helps the women to help themselves. It furnishes a program adapted to the times and helps meet the demand for low cost means for building of labor saving equipment for the home, for means of providing inexpensive recreation in the home and many other demands incidental to these depression times.

Home Bureaus are now organized in 1,027 communities, all depending upon the aid and oversight of the State College. The latter is striving to meet the situation, despite a loss in support, both state and federal.

and cuts in salaries.

There was much appreciation as to what action would be taken at Washington in regard to support of research and extension work, elimination of these Home Bureau from the federal budget having been threatened. Over 40,000 telegrams from interested women had been sent to Washington, protesting against eliminating these appropriations. Dr. Green said the latest report was that research work would be cut 40 per cent and extension work 25 per cent. The research and extension work of the State College depends to a very large extent upon Federal appropriations.

The speaker said that the Home Bureau had, during the past year, kept within its budget, which was some achievement. She closed with the thought that home is the great measure of national greatness and that the Home Bureau has as its aim the reinstatement and preservation of home life.

Mrs. Carrie Williams of Orange county, president of the district organization of Home Bureau managers, brought greetings from that organization and introduced the managers of the various county Home Bureaus, which brought to an end the program of the evening.

PHOENICIA

Phoenixia, May 4.—The Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Coffey and family were in Binghamton on Saturday to attend the burial of their daughter, Jeanne.

Mrs. C. Goede and Mrs. James Simpson spent a few days in Poughkeepsie the past week.

Mrs. C. Verry entertained her sisters and their families from Binghamton over the week-end.

Among the Kingston callers on Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. William McGrath and family, Mrs. C. Gross, Mrs. Joseph Nolan, Mrs. Joseph Schoonmaker, Mrs. Mary Nolan, Miss Gladys Cox, Frances Hill and Mary Van Steenberg.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nolan spent the week-end in Albany.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Duffy of Osealing spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. F. Simmons.

At the annual school meeting held Tuesday evening the following officers were elected: W. Malloy, trustee; Mrs. R. P. Longyear, collector; H. Trimmer, clerk.

J. Newman is spending a few days in New Jersey.

Mrs. M. Gossau is spending some time with her daughter in Binghamton.

Mrs. L. Trimmer is spending two weeks in New York city.

W. J. Andrews spent Thursday in town.

Mrs. J. Hall is spending some time at the Central Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Elise wish to extend their heartfelt appreciation and thanks to the M. F. Whitney Home Company and to their many friends for all their kindnesses at the time of their fire.

PALENTOWN

Paleontown, May 4.—The Samsonville school pupils and teacher and their invited friends passed through this place last Friday to the Travelers' Camp, where they held their picnic. The lunch consisted of sandwiches, rolls, hot dogs, baked beans, potatoes, salad, boiled eggs, pickles, cake and candy. All enjoyed the event.

Mrs. Mildred Traver, who spent the winter in Rochester, is home on a two-weeks' vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Pittman spent a few days at their bungalow last week. Their little daughter has the whooping cough.

Mrs. Clara Lennon has moved her household furniture to Roxbury where she expects to make her home.

All are sorry to hear that Wilson Terwilliger has pneumonia. His many friends wish his speedy recovery.

Mrs. Mary Schryver has sold her farm to a party in New York city.

Mrs. John Traver spent Wednesday with her father, Wilson Gray.

The school meeting was held May 3 in the schoolhouse. Those elected were Oliver Gray, trustee; Elmer Barringer, clerk; and Everett Brannen, collector.

Howard Van Kleeck and Joseph Lennon called at John Traver's Tuesday afternoon.

Learning To Sew

By ALICE JUDSON PEALE

Your little girl, watching you, will want to sew as you do. Usually the first thing she wants to make is a dress for her favorite doll, and it is with whatever she wants to make, unless it is something impossibly difficult that sewing lessons should begin.

The doll dress should be cut out for her, a known sleeve pattern as simple as possible but of some bright material of her own choosing. Give her a large needle and a strong thread, not too long. Try not to help or interfere unless she asks you to.

She will be satisfied with crude results unless you spoil them for her by criticizing them.

A doll dress that is a dress only by virtue of two rough side seams and a safety pin holding it together at the neck is usually considered a complete success by the child and it is better for her to be pleased with this first effort than to help her a good deal and insist upon her making something much better than that.

At the end of a sitting she should always have "finished" what she has undertaken, no matter how unfinished her work looks to you.

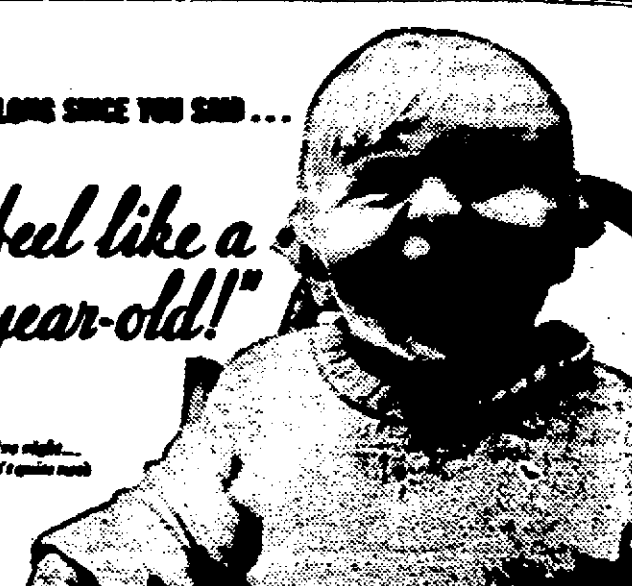

After a time she will begin to criticize her own results and ask your help in bettering them. She will be willing to sit down to the same piece of work a number of times until it is completed.

Do not insist upon plain sewing, neat seams, fine hems. Let her learn for herself that these things make her work more satisfactory. As she develops skill and judgment show her how to cut without waste from a paper pattern.

Reward painstaking effort by providing the materials she wants and allow her freedom to use them according to her own ideas.

HOW LONG SINCE YOU SAID ...
"I feel like a 2-year-old!"

(You're right...
So feel again now!)

YOU can't help feeling young when you get a regular supply of the things that youth is made of... the vital elements that Nature packs in Shredded Wheat—carbohydrates, proteins, minerals, vitamins, and bran to keep you regular. ALL the life-giving elements of 100% whole wheat—nothing added, nothing taken away.

Try Shredded Wheat for ten mornings with milk or cream, fresh or preserved fruit. See if this VITALLY DIFFERENT food doesn't put a youthful spring in your step. See if it doesn't make you say, "I feel like a two-year-old!"

Spring Heralds Coming Circus

Mark Actual Geography Seen in Spectacular Ring

The circus, that of animals and people, is about to change from winter quarters. The magic formula of red wagons and the footprints of elephants' padded bottoms have echoed down the corridors of many seasons; but few really know the phantom white city, a fantastic world, a geographic marvel and a mystery from beginning to end.

There is more actual geography within the narrow borders of Spangland than in any similar space on the face of the earth. From the shores of the ocean come its citizens, their faces toward the open road where lies the winding trail of the big top. Dainty acrobats from France, and handsome Russians from the steppes; pink-cheeked athletes from Great Britain and Scandinavia; flashing brunettes from Italy, Argentina, Mexico, and sunny Spain; blond Germans with iron bodies; suave, charming Austrians; almond-eyed maidens from Yokohama, Tokyo, and Nagasaki and from the seething land of the dragon; sun-tanned shells from the shifting sands of Arabia; whip-crackers from Australia and hard-riding cowboys from the western plains; clowns, acrobats, aerialists, riders, staff executives and laborers from every state in the Union—all owe allegiance to the transient country of tents.

A game of checkers in the circus "backyard" between a genial young Japanese tumbler, heir to half a million dollars, and an old clown who ran away from his home in the Middle West long ago, lured by the spangled flag and his steel-throated callopes, shows how the big top draws together the ends of the earth. Such is the population of Spangland, where people from nearly every country under the sun are fed into the hopper of a highly organized machine to emerge finally woven into the brilliant mosaic of a fast-moving performance, subsiding without reservation to the one supreme law of the trouper—"The show must go on."

The circus is organized socially, but a trouper's geographical background has nothing to do with his qualification for membership in the circus golf club, baseball team, clown society, women's club, or circus chapter of the American Red Cross. Above all else, the population of this nomadic melting pot learns tolerance, and it's what a person is rather than where he came from that counts most.

Get Start in Circus.
Circusdom has been a springboard from which men have vaulted to prominence in other fields. Will Rogers was the "Cherokee Kid" with Wirth's circus in 1894. Al G. Fields, the minstrel king, started trouping as a Shakespearean clown. Fred Stone wore spangles before the footlights claimed him, and some of his best antics were born here in "Clown Alley" during his circus days.

Many persons still look upon circus trouping as something akin to robbing a bank, which accounts for the interesting fact that many present-day circus stars had to run away from home to join. Take Mabel Stark, for example. Her relatives virtually disowned her when she laid aside the crisp, white uniform of the trained nurse to expose herself to the mauling of "big striped tomatoes" as she affectionately refers to her tigers. But the call of the callopes and the magic of the midway were in her ears and she immigrated to Spangland, there to become the only woman in the world who breaks, trains, and works tigers. She has more scars on her body than a giraffe has spots, and her exciting career has fed newspaper columns for years.

The almost unlimited geographical aspects of the circus are nowhere more in evidence than in the wild-animal menagerie. To this traveling college of zoology belong animals from every continent, each a splendid physical specimen, receiving the utmost care from the animal attendants. Zoological experts from leading universities never come to marvel at the exceptionally fine condition of the circus animals, despite the fact that they are moved from city to city almost every day. Variation in climate in different sections of the country presents a serious problem for circus animal attendants, who often pass hours in a cage with a sick jungle charge, so fond are they of their animals. Seldom does a beast die while the circus is on the road.

Under a single spread of canvas are gathered hundreds of animals and birds—tigers from Bengal, Sumatra, and Siberia; lions and leopards from Africa's tangled jungles; tall, slender giraffes from the open stretches of Ethiopia; albatross, black back, and white, and gambel's antelope. In the same circus colony are Russian brown bears, huge black fellows from Alaska, and polar bears from Greenland's icy slopes. But the circus animal population does not end here. There are hippos from the north of the Transvaal; orang utans from Borneo; they're monkeys with pathetic faces, affectionate dispositions, and delicate tempers; lemurs from the mountains of Persia; panthers from North and South America; macaws from Mexico; sea lions from California; a sea elephant from the Antarctic wastes; wip-

Steady elephants and a curious assortment of rhinoceroses from India; the same familiar white from Africa, to gather with swans, demodoceras, seals, and water buffaloes. Animals contribute the kingdom.

The rhinoceros, despite his perpetual growth and his amazing strength, is one of the most valuable beasts in the circus, costing about $10,000 by the time he has been purchased from an expert and raised to maturity. While the more impressive rhinos hail from India, a detouring species, the African, is a formidable fellow of somewhat different disposition. Rhinoceros, elephant, or water buffalo can whip a tiger or at least discourage him in most instances. In contrast to the out-tempered pachyderm, with the deadly horn and the tiger, pig-like eyes, is the good-natured hippopotamus, as gentle as a lamb.

Elephants From India.

Circus elephants, almost without exception, come from India. Their African cousins, though larger, are much harder to handle and have proved pretty generally useless in circuses except for display purposes. Jumbo was an African and he was stubborn, like the rest of his four-footed countrymen. One night years ago, in St. Thomas, Ont., Jumbo got into an argument with a freight train on the wrong track, with the result that his funeral was held the following morning.

Indian elephants are natural actors and enjoy dollar tricks in the big show. They are quick to learn, once they realize what is expected of them, and their ears are tuned to applause like those of a horn trouper. Most of them are surprisingly good-natured, and they are so anxious about a firm footing that in most cases they will not voluntarily step on a man. Giraffes are captured by means of a lasso, and often an Africa-born giraffe will be seen to have about two inches of hair missing from his stubby mane—evidence that the lasso was instrumental in his capture.

The big circus cats, unless born on the show, are captured in the jungle regions with traps and pits covered with jungle foliage and baited with young goats. A new method of capturing wild beasts alive involves shooting them with a gas bullet that puts the animal to sleep without pain. When the creature wakes up he finds himself a prisoner. These recently perfected gas bullets are said to be capable of bringing down a lion or a tiger at a distance of 200 feet. But circus animals from the four corners of the earth are imported for a far more interesting purpose than mere exhibition. Many of them are educated. In the circus "classrooms" the natural enemies of the jungles are taught to tolerate one another.

Mystery of Circusdom.
Much of the mystery of circusdom lies in the moving of this miniature cosmos, with its citizenry of animals and people from every clime, and in the pitching of the tents that compose the canvas city. The largest circus carries its own doctor, lawyers, detectives, barber shop, blacksmith shop, fire department, chefs, business experts, and postal service, and it travels on 100 railroad cars in four sections. There are long, steel flat cars for the wagons and other vehicles; huge box cars for the hundreds of horses, elephants, camels, llamas, zebras; commodious sleeping cars for the performers, staff, and laborers.

That the moving of the show may be expedited, cook and dining equipment is packed up at 5:30 in the afternoon, and is sent ahead aboard the flying squadron, along with the wild animal cages and the menagerie tent, which is loaded immediately after the start of the night performance. The land of the white top remains static for just about six hours—between the time the last wagon moves upon the lot, in the late morning, until loading begins again, in the late afternoon. But, if there is a late arrival, the time between unloading and packing up again is shorter still. Of course, when the circus arrives on Sunday or when it remains in a city for more than one day, as it does in a few very large cities, this schedule is not followed. The longest run made by a circus in 1931 was the Ringling-Barnum jump from Springfield, Mass., to Montreal, Canada, a Sunday trip of 335 miles. The shortest run was 12 miles, from Philadelphia to West Philadelphia.

Circus exhibition in the United States had its beginning in 1793 and President Washington attended Richard's circus in Philadelphia in 1793. The circus of those early days was a pony ancestor of the present-day show. Indeed, it had no elephant! The first parchment to set foot in the United States arrived several years later, aboard a military vessel called America. Spaniards scarcely could lay claim to being a complete world in miniature were it not for the fact that within its boundaries can be seen the freak as well as the normal handiwork of Nature. The side show is a separate and distinct kingdom.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)
Luxor, Egypt, May 3 (AP)—The broadest part of the African continent has been crossed for the first time.
T. A. Glover, his same sister, Mrs. G. Glover, Capt. E. B. Andrew and S. Morgan have arrived here from Khartoum after trekking two years with three trucks.
During explorations in the northern half of the "dark continent," they retraced the 1,500 miles from Khartoum the farthest point west, to Ras Hissim, the most easterly point.

Order Manager in Lane
Baltimore—When D. W. Siemon, employment manager of the Glenn L. Martin Aircraft Company, arrived for work after the company management had announced it had orders to build new planes, 500 men blocked the door to his office.
"Get in line," he was told roughly. He finally had to enter through another part of the building.

That Was No Pipe
Emporia, Kas.—Evan F. Williams picked up a piece of pipe in a field and placed it in his car. It moved, alarming others in the vehicle. To assure them all was well Williams inspected it. A rattlesnake emerged and bit his hand.

Women's Privilege
Oklahoma City—The Winnings have moved but Mrs. Winnings had the last word. Ordered by City Health Inspector Ira Wheeler to vacate property on which they had settled, Mrs. Winnings left the inspector a note, which read:
"We're moving. You've got my husband scared, but not me."

Everybody's Doing It
New York—T. S. Stribbling, novelist from the south, says everyone down that way is writing novels. "You can hardly turn around without bumping a novelist. In Clifton, Tenn., where I live, the backcountry boys bring their work to me and I tell them that they're doing fine; to keep it up for 50 years and then it'll be good."

Moslem Honor For Englishwoman
London—Lady Evelyn Cobbold is the first Englishwoman to attain the Moslem title of "Hadij."
In pilgrimage to Mecca, the holy city, she performed the religious ceremonies of circumambulating the Holy Kaaba seven times and visiting the well Zem-Zem. The Holy Kaaba is reputed to have been set up by Abraham when Ishmael was cast out.

Lady Evelyn, a sister of the Earl of Dunsmore, lord-in-waiting to the King, has been a Moslem many years.

Another Tax
Philadelphia—Now it's a "tax" on Philadelphia newspaper carriers. The board of mercantile appraisers has begun collecting of an annual $3 "retail license fee" from newspaper and magazine vendors throughout the city.

Woe For Kibitzer
New York—Kibitzing in a beauty parlor is hard on the eye and ears. Miss Glenna Wright told a judge. She said she accompanied a friend to Henry Lucy's shop. While the friend was getting a haircut, Miss Wright hovered around offering suggestions. Then she offered the opinion the job wasn't so hot. Whereupon, she said, Lucy left off clipping hair and clipped her on the eye and ear.

Singing in the Bathtub
Milwaukee—Sing in the bathtub to develop resonance, projection and volume of the voice, is the advice of Miss Anna Carr, director of the Milwaukee Teachers' College speech clinic.
"The competition with the running water is a challenge to the voice to get volume by rising above its sound, and the hollow tub is a good resonator," she said.

A Queen's in Trouble
Evanston, Ill.—A policeman's ball wouldn't be complete without a queen, so Police Chief William O. Freeman told his lady to be on the alert for a likely candidate.
Policeman William Cameron arrested Miss Frances McCoy, 20, on a charge of speeding. She consented to be queen at the ball last night, but notwithstanding this she will have to appear in court to answer the speeding charge.

His Health Was Good
Moline, Ill.—A stroke of apoplexy at 80 caused the death of Asbury C. Griffin, who, relatives said had been ill but one day during his entire life. He worked most of his life in coal mines, starting when he was 10 years old.

Soccer Is Better
Hartford, Wis.—Belief that Miss Margaret Wheeler, 12-year-old high school senior, has passed the critical test of a four-day sneezing affliction, was expressed by Dr. J. G. Hoffman.
Steady improvement in the girl's condition was noted by the attending physician as she neared the fourth hour of confinement in St. Joseph's Hospital. She was resting from five to ten minutes between spasms and enjoyed complete relief, under mild sedatives, Dr. Hoffman said.

NO INCREASE IN TIME
COST AT SERVICE CENTER

Beginning May first the sales tax on three wheel into effect; but during the month of May the same prices will prevail at Brown's Service Center on automobile tires and Brown will pay the tax. After May the increase will be passed on to the purchaser.

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 4 (AP).—Financial markets were a little bit wobbly for a time in the earlier trading today, but developed a better tone after midday.

Trading was less active in shares. After some early selling, rallies led the list a little higher. Wheat and cotton followed a somewhat similar course, with cotton regaining most of a setback of around 50 cents a bale. Rails and U. S. governments were firm in bonds. The dollar sagged slightly in foreign exchange dealings.

Gains of 1 to 2 points appeared in such shares as Pennsylvania, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Illinois Central, and Lackawanna. Other shares up a point or more included American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Allied Chemical, Case, International Telephone, Western Union, Standard of N. J., and Seaboard Oil. New York traction was firm and motors rose fractionally. Tobaccos were heavy in profit taking on yesterday's advance.

The communications issues were bid up chiefly in response to reports of better business. Cable business has picked up considerably, coincident to increased speculative activity. Rumors of a merger between Western Union and Postal Telegraph, subsidiary of International Telephone, have been revived, but this would require an act of Congress, since the White Act now stands in the way.

Oils were inclined to recover from their rather sharp setback. Early first quarter earnings reports indicated that the industry has run into the red again, after the improvement last year. A number of petroleum quarters now hope for Federal action to bring order out of the chaos in the industry.

POULTRY

POULTRY DISEASE PROVING SERIOUS

Range Paralysis Reported in Many Sections.

By G. L. FARMER, Bureau Specialist in Poultry Diseases, Ohio State University, W.S.V. Service

A disease of poultry, its cause unknown, is exacting an increasingly heavy toll in farm flocks in many sections. The disease is known as range paralysis and may become evident when the chicks are about fourteen weeks old. Chickens appear to be susceptible to the disease until they are eighteen months old.

Mortality due to the disease has been found to vary from 5 to 80 percent in a number of flocks, and the first symptoms are lameness, or paralysis in one or both legs, blindness, and the drooping of one or both wings. Although the disease has become known as range paralysis, it is found to occur also among chicks raised in confinement away from the poultry range.

Until a means of prevention of the disease is known, flocks found susceptible to it should be treated as if the flock were contagiously infected. Strict sanitation, avoidance of over-crowding of the young chickens, raising of chicks in small units, and segregation from old hens, is recommended.

When the disease becomes serious, keep over as many of the older birds of the flock as possible, for there are no known cases where the disease occurred after the birds were eighteen months old.

Certain families of chickens seem to be resistant to the disease.

Value of Good Hen Is Found in Egg Record

While all hens cannot be expected to lay as many eggs as a few of the most outstanding individuals, nevertheless, the exceptional individuals show the possibility of improvement, so it is worth while to occasionally call attention to some of the better records.

O. A. Barton, of the poultry department of the North Dakota experiment station, reports the record made by a single Rhode Island hen in a two-year period. This hen produced 242 eggs in two years, or 234 eggs the first year and 258 the second year.

This hen consumed 190 pounds of feed during the two years, or only about twice as much feed as the weight of the eggs produced. The market value of the eggs was $10 for the two years, while the feed cost was $2. In other words, this hen made a gross profit above feed cost of $8 per year. Her average feed consumption was about four pounds for each dozen eggs produced. Thus, her feed cost was less than 5 cents per dozen eggs.

Figures of this sort should encourage poultry producers to keep egg records and continue breeding from their most precious hens, mated with males from high producing stock.—Wallace Farmer.

Colds and Roup

Colds and roup in chickens are frequently present. An outbreak of these diseases cannot always be prevented. Therefore, one has to resort occasionally to individual treatment. Applying an ointment to the head, face, comb and wattles of the affected chicken is often recommended. Such an ointment may be made as follows: Eight ounces of olive oil, one ounce of gum camphor, one ounce of carbolic acid.

In making this ointment the olive oil is heated and the gum camphor dissolved in same. The mixture is permitted to cool before adding the carbolic acid. Unless the mixture is cool at the same time the carbolic acid is added, an explosion will occur. To be safe it is usually desirable to have the druggist make the ointment.

The ointment may be applied every second or third day until it is no longer needed. In severe cases it is desirable to place a small quantity of the ointment in the opening in the roof of the mouth at the time the head and face are massaged.—Missouri Farmer.

Cater to Appetites

When birds are out of condition, feed should be given according to their appetites. When they regain their health and appetites, the regular feeds and schedule of feeding can be gradually resumed. Even with layers in the prime of condition, it pays to cater to their appetites as no two flocks are likely to have the same tastes. One flock will prefer one kind of grain or mash and another will prefer something else. It pays to give them what they want.

Cross-Breeding

Poultry raisers who have stock of the lighter weight breeds and wish to produce table birds often find it profitable to cross some of their hens with males of heavier breeds. In this way they may increase the weight of the chickens from one to two pounds each. If their own breeds are very heavy, layers the cross-bred pullets will probably not equal them, but will still prove profitable layers through the winter and spring. There is a chance the cross-bred pullets will be better.

Insects That Damage Plants

Insects are equipped to attack plants in many ways. Such as the grasshopper and cabbage worm have hard, powerful teeth. They chew off and gnaw the solid parts of plants. Still others harm plants indirectly by acting on the carriers of plant diseases.

Society Notes

Birthday Party.

Miss Genevieve Cuffe entertained Wednesday evening at her home, 13 Clinton avenue, on the occasion of her 15th birthday anniversary. Guests had a most enjoyable time and in addition to wishes for many more happy birthdays left with Miss Cuffe a nice collection of birthday gifts. During the evening there was an exhibition of novelty fox-trot dancing by Miss Campbell and Al Henton and vocal selections by Ed Cheney and Charles Port. Those present were Mildred Schumaker, Rita Herrick, Edith Woolsey, Mary Campbell, Mildred Longene, Marie Hoban, Lena Mayone, Josephine Rietz, Charles Boyce, Tom Ryan, Charles Port, Bernice McHale, Al Henton, Joe Sparling, Ed. Cherney, Abe Taylor, Ken Fitzgerald, Warren Herwig, Arnold Tierney and Myron York.

Shower for Miss Fitchett

New Paltz, May 4.—A lingerie shower was given Miss Winifred Fitchett at the home of Miss Jean Hopkins in Brewster during the past week. Miss Fitchett will be married to C. Leslie Seaman of Poughkeepsie. The guests were all members of the Clionian Sorority of the New Paltz Normal School, where Miss Fitchett was a member of last year's graduating class. Miss Hopkins, New Paltz 23, was formerly Miss Fitchett's roommate. Those present at the shower beside Miss Fitchett were the hostess and her mother, Mrs. Addison Hopkins, Hazel Sullivan, Charlotte Tamney, Dorothy White, Marion Williams, Katherine Parry, Betty Shacklette, Marion Alley, Constance Mather, Betty Wood, Katherine Cornell, Frances Fitzgerald, Alberta Bailey, Winifred Osborne and Bernice Brooks. After the bridge games, Miss Fitchett poured when tea was served. Gifts at bridge were awarded to Dorothy White, first, and Marion Alley, second.

NEW PALTS

Mrs. Harry Huling, Mrs. Russell Atkins and Mrs. Mrs. Herbert Carpenter were Sunday guests at the Kevan farm.

Mrs. R. R. Atkins, Mrs. John Colwell and Mrs. Robert Mauserstock attended the luncheon and district meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society held today in the M. E. Church in Walden.

Mrs. and Mrs. John Colwell and son have returned to their home after spending the winter in Lakehurst, N. J.

About the Folks

Miss Ruth Smith of 254 Broadway

has returned from a three weeks' visit with relatives in New York city.

Mrs. Phyllis Lasher was removed from 42 Wrentham street to the Woodstock Hospital in the ambulance on Wednesday.

Mrs. Klein of St. Mary's street, who fell and broke her arm, has returned home from the hospital, where she is under the care of Dr. Jack Lehner.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Hadel of 55 Smith avenue are the proud parents of a son, Ira Hubbard Hadel, born at the Kingston Hospital on March 31. Dr. Kroon was the attending physician.

Dr. and Mrs. Raymond S. Crispell have returned to Kingston and are staying at the Governor Clinton Hotel Annex. They made an auto trip to the west coast and report a very enjoyable time. They were gone three months and spent some time in southern California.

Mrs. William J. Hutton of Lawrenceville street, Lincoln Park, is convalescing at the home of her mother, Mrs. Benjamin Starna, 31 Taylor street, following an operation for the removal of her tonsils and adenoids by Dr. Jacobson at the Kingston Hospital.

Dairying led all other farm products as an income producer in Tennessee in 1932.

Local Death Record

Mrs. William Rutherford, a former resident of this city, died Tuesday at her home in New Rochelle. The remains will be removed to Brooklyn, Mass., where on Saturday burial will be made. Mrs. Rutherford is survived by her husband, who for a number of years was manager of the L. R. Van Wageningen Co.

Poems of Beauty

By J. B. Evans

There's a house I love by a little stream
That runs past the hills of long ago.
And by day and night in memory's dream
To a little home out there I go.
There is no place seems half so fair
As this home's my halcyon shore.
There is love and faith and sympathy there
In the little home of mother mine.

Italian Envoy to Study U. S. Outline

Washington, May 4 (AP).—Guido Jung, the Italian envoy, having heard from President Roosevelt a broad outline of the American aims for removal of international trade barriers and establishment of stable currencies, planned today to go deeper into those problems in co-operation with Secretary Hull and American and Italian experts.

After a two-hour discussion with Mr. Roosevelt in the White House late yesterday, Jung told newspapermen that it was too early to state Italy's position on a tariff treaty, but added that "Signor Mussolini has always been in favor of lowering the barriers between nations."

He pointed out also that Italy has had a stable currency since 1927 and that its stability would be defended "as strenuously and as firmly as can be imagined."

"Being stable," the Italian minister of finance said, "we would like the others to be stable."

Jung who is being aided in the discussions here by Ambassador Rosso, will have further talks with Mr. Roosevelt and it was expected that the questions of war debts, disarmament and European peace would be more thoroughly examined.

This government was officially informed last night that Japan has no intention of closing the "open door" in Manchuria to American trade because the United States has not recognized the state of Manchukuo. The Japanese foreign ministry gave this word to Ambassador Grew at Tokyo, thus removing any concern that Japan might thus seek to force American recognition.

MacDonald Gives An Account of U.S. Talks

London, May 4 (AP).—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald announced Britain's conditional acceptance of the tariff truce proposed by the United States when he reported today to an intensely interested house of commons on his momentous mission to Washington, where he discussed with President Roosevelt methods of lifting the world from its economic distress.

There were three main points in the prime minister's account of his journey to Washington:

1. He revealed that his stipulation for "safeguards" for Great Britain in effecting the tariff truce had been considered "reasonable" by the United States.
2. He announced that the war debts had been "frankly examined in all their aspects" although no agreement was reached.
3. He informed the house that on the problem of disarmament he and President Roosevelt achieved "common views" which already have had effect at the disarmament negotiations now going forward at Geneva.

The prime minister was cheered by the members as he appeared in the house to render an account of his stewardship.

Grange Will Meet In Milton May 10

The Ulster County Grange Masters and Lecturers Association will hold its regular meeting Wednesday evening, May 10, in the Milton Grange Hall at 7:30, standard time. According to I. C. Barnes of New Paltz, president of the association, all Grange masters and lecturers, both past and present and all members of service and hospitality committees are expected to attend. This will be the annual meeting. Officers for 1933-34 will be elected and all those who have not joined are asked to do so at the meeting next Wednesday.

The officers whose terms expire are I. C. Barnes, president; Henry Mollenhauer of Rosendale, vice-president; and Albert Kurdt of Kingston, secretary-treasurer. It has been suggested that the officers be permitted to hold office for one year only.

After the general meeting, the three groups, the masters, the lecturers and members of the service and hospitality committees, will meet by themselves and discuss mutual problems. Harold Story of Ulster Park, master of Pomona Grange, and Mr. Barnes will meet with the masters; Mrs. Charles O. Jenkins, Pomona Grange lecturer, will meet with the lecturers; and Mrs. Charles Everett, chairman of the county service and hospitality committee, will meet with that group.

All those attending are expected to provide some light lunch and refreshments. A picnic supper will then be enjoyed by all after the business sessions.

Kingston Plays Liberty Saturday

Kingston High Monte Liberty High in the second DUBO League Game of the Season At the Kingston Fair Grounds Saturday Afternoon—Game With Sagamore Wednesday Was Postponed.

If the weather permits King will lead his boys through two more drills on the Athletic Field to polish up the speed for the Liberty High game Saturday afternoon on the Kingston Fair Grounds at 2:30. This will be the second game of the season and also a DUBO circuit contest. Kingston has already made some headway towards the League crown for this baseball season in defeating Newburgh Academy last Saturday, 10-9. The game scheduled Wednesday afternoon with Sagamore High School was postponed because of rain. It has been arranged that this game in the village be played next Wednesday.

High School Rifle Club Party May 12

The Kingston High School Rifle Club will hold its party in the high school gym on Friday evening, May 12. All arrangements have been made and invitations have been extended to all teachers and students of the school. The party is scheduled to get under way at 8:30.

The committee consisting of Ben MacFadden, chairman; Bob Chambers and Jim O'Connor, has chosen George Smith and his orchestra to furnish the music. The entertainment will consist of a skit by James O'Connor, Hart Snyder and Al Pell. This will be followed by a double wedding.

An auxiliary committee from the Kingston newspaper staff has been appointed and is working along with the Rifle Club. The newspaper committee consists of June MacFadden, Margaret Smith, Frederick Holcomb and Leo Morgan.

Big Reception for Rev. C. E. Rignall

Over 200 members and friends of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church and their children made their way in 12. All arrangements have been made and invitations have been extended to all teachers and students of the school. The party is scheduled to get under way at 8:30.

The program was directed in very able fashion by Edgar B. Scheymmon who introduced the speakers and solicited to a very receptive audience. The speakers and guests of honor were, District Superintendent the Rev. George A. Shahan, Dr. Lucas Boore, vice-president of the Ministerial Association, who welcomed the Rev. Mr. Rignall to the opportunities and pleasant associations awaiting him here in Kingston and the Clinton Avenue Church; the Rev. Frank H. Neal of St. James M. E. Church; the Rev. Wilbur F. Stowe of Reformed Church of the Comforter; the Rev. F. H. Denning of Trinity M. E. Church; the Rev. Mr. Harvey of M. E. Zion and Dr. Bond, retired minister of the Methodist Conference.

Mr. Rignall responded to the many pleasantities tendered him in a very entertaining and sincere manner, telling some of his many experiences in other parishes and among other things, stating that he would feel no offense if those who could not sleep he would be glad to extend to them the privilege of taking their rest in the pew and that he would wake them up at the close of the service. Whether there will be many who will take advantage of this magnanimous offer or not may be judged by observation on the future services. Mr. Rignall said that above all things, "I like my job, and if you like your job here in the church work, we'll get big things done in a most pleasant way."

Very pleasing solos were sung by Mrs. L. E. Sanford, Vernon S. Miller and August Franz, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Bessie H. Ellison, organist of the Clinton Avenue Church.

At the close of the program, Mrs. Shahan and Mrs. Rignall were presented with beautiful baskets of flowers by the Misses Madeline L. and Muriel B. Smith, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Smith, as tokens of welcome from the many well wishers and friends of these two ladies here in Clinton Avenue Church.

Refreshments in the form of ice cream and cake were served by the young ladies of the church and a social hour was used to its greatest possibilities by all in renewing acquaintances and making of new ones.

Rumba Band to Play At Golden Rule Inn

Inn Manager Brings Cuban Orchestra and Feature Dancers—Dance Team Appears After Canadian Appearance.

In offering Risata Don Juan, the Golden Rule Inn is making its most pretentious effort to date, according to Louis Kuntz, manager of the inn. This orchestra originates from Havana, Cuba.

Of this organization he says: "The nature of its work is versatile insofar that it is two orchestras in one. Patrons will hear tangos and chumbas as well as fox trots and waltzes on both string and wind instruments. In addition there is entertainment headed by a marvelous team of society dancers, Crawford and Caskey, who returned this week from Club Maurice, Montreal's swankiest cynosure."

These artists will appear Saturday and Sunday, May 6 and 7, only.

Wednesday evening in the front corridor of Kingston High School where the students are exchanging tickets for the high school play, "Minick" a report was issued that many good seats were still left for the production which will be staged Friday evening in the school auditorium.

The cast held dress rehearsal Wednesday evening and the performance progressed smoothly and rapidly. The critics who viewed the rehearsal were pleased and gave no severe criticism.

The popular three act comedy, "Minick" will rank with the best ever produced at the school and its final performance may determine a better class of presentation and set a new goal for future stage successes.

Baseball Game At Wilbur On Friday

The W.-E. baseball team will oppose the Perry All Stars of Poughkeepsie at the Wilbur diamond Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock. Batteries: W.-E.—Burns and McLane, pitchers; Britt and Dunn, catchers. Perry—Spitzer, pitcher; Kreppel, catcher.

Musical Society Of Kingston Held Open Meeting Wednesday

Class Session of Musical Society and Meeting at Home of Mrs. Antonio Knauth on Albany Avenue—The Evening's Program.

On Wednesday evening the Musical Society of Kingston closed the season of mutual study and music with an open meeting held at the charming home of Mrs. Antonio Knauth on Albany Avenue, when a very interesting and well prepared program of music was presented by members of the club, whose friends were there also. Mrs. Knauth's guests.

There was one special guest of honor, Mrs. Eula Morris, of New York City, president of the New York State Federation of Music Clubs, whom all present greatly enjoyed meeting after the program.

In welcoming the guests and club members, Mrs. W. Mac Granger, the president, expressed pleasure in having so many friends with

Sarazen Lays Down Six Essentials To Start The Golfing Year Right

(This is the first of a series of twelve articles in which Gene Sarazen, world golf champion, tells the average player how to cut strokes off his score.)

By GENE SARAZEN
World Golf Champion
(As Told To Alan Gould)

Most golfers start out all wrong in the spring-time.

Generally, they fail to look their clubs and equipment over properly, take their stance and swing too much for granted, over-do at the outset and then begin to wonder what's wrong with their game.

They wouldn't go into their business that way, but because golf is play, they fail to apply the simplest and most obvious fundamentals required to give them the most enjoyment out of it.

The Six Essentials.

I would list the essential things for the average player during the first few weeks as follows:

1. Before starting out at all, have the pro look over your swing, detect faults you don't suspect and give you the proper advice.
2. Protect your hands against blistering by taking things easily, unless you have been forewarned enough to have practiced swinging something heavy or using hand exercises.
3. Inspect your clubs closely, for repairing or conditioning. It may save you money later.
4. After you have played a few weeks, if you are still slicing or hooking when you don't want to, rubbing those important pinch spots or putting poorly, have the pro take another good look at your game.
5. Pay special attention to your grip and stance; these are the most important factors in any golfer's performance. The left hand must be over far enough so that you can see all four knuckles. Remember that one.

This is the time of year when a few million divot diggers are wondering what happened to their games during the long winter months. With that in mind, Gene Sarazen, British and American Open champion play in a series of twelve illustrated articles.

6. Be sure your shoes are all right, comfortable and in good condition. A golfer travels on his feet and nothing will do him more harm than being poorly shod.

Hook Deliberately At Start.

I put in hours of practice myself before attempting my first round of spring golf. Of course it is business with me and the ordinary player doesn't want to do that. In fact he can't. But, in proportion, if he follows my suggestions, he will get better results and more quickly tune up his game.

It's a good tip to hook deliberately at the start. It develops power and soon the exaggeration can be eliminated or controlled.

Tagging Major League Bases

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Two of the least important factors in one of the biggest of last winter's baseball trades, Fred Schulte and Sam West, have blossomed out as leading figures of the American League with their new teams, much to the surprise of practically everybody concerned.

Schulte went from the St. Louis Browns to the Washington Senators and West reversed the route in the deal in which Goose Goslin, Walter Stewart, Carl Reynolds and Lloyd Brown figured and drew most of the comment. There didn't appear to be much choice between them. They are about the same age and size, each had been in the league six seasons. Schulte compiling a .296 batting average over that period and West hitting an even .300.

Clouted 'em Early
When they were dropped into regular positions this spring both began hitting at a terrific clip at a time when most of the other major league batters were taking their swings at puzzling pitching and then going back to the bench. Now Schulte is the leading batter of the league with a .397 average for 16 games while West is ranked as his leading rival, batting .388 in 20 games.

West lost a good chance to gain on his rival yesterday as rain and cold weather forced the postponement of all but two major league games, including the Senators' clash with Detroit. He yielded with the rest of the Browns to the pitching skill of Fry Paul Andrews, who hurtled the Boston Red Sox to a 6 to 1 triumph to break a six game losing streak.

Sam did his share by clouting his third home run of the season with empty bases in the fourth inning, but Andrews allowed only five other hits while the Sox hunched blows off Bump Hadley for three runs in the opening and continued to hit at the important moments. Big Smead Jolley set the pace with a single, a double and a triple.

Boston also came out on top in the only National League game of the day as the Braves came from underneath to down the Cincinnati Reds 6 to 4.

Rally in 8th Wins.
Red Lucas, the reliable Cincinnati right hander, appeared to have his fourth straight game won when the Braves laid down a barrage of long hits in the eighth inning and came out with four runs and the ball game. Randy Moore opened with a single, then Wally Berger clouted a triple and Fritz Knochke and Wes Schulmerich came through with home runs. Besides losing his first game of the season, Lucas gave his first walk to Randy Moore in the sixth. It was the only one but it led to a run as Berger and Hogan hit behind it.

Van Etten & Hogans Meet Herzogs Tonight

Wet grounds caused the postponement of the City Baseball League game scheduled for the Schryver Lumbermen and Clow's Dairyman at the Athletic Field Wednesday evening. The teams took advantage of the postponement though by getting in a lot of practice on the part of the field which wasn't so wet.

Tonight at the Athletic Field the Van Etten & Hogan Truckers and Herzog's Hardwaremen will cross bats. The Truckers are colored players and it is the first time that a colored outfit has played in the circuit. The Hardwaremen also are making their debut in the loop. The starting time will be 6:20 sharp.

Mandy Wilson, who has pitched good ball in the past few seasons, will do the twirling for the Truckers. His receiver will be the well-known Cleveland Thomas. Ed Flemming is the likely choice for the Hardwaremen. Harold Clayton will be on the receiving end.

Rondouts To Open Against Battery A

The Rondout A. C. baseball team will open its season Sunday at Block Park at 3 o'clock against the Battery A nine. Pitching for the Rondouts will be Joe Coughlin, formerly with the Blue Sox. Art Hoffman will do the receiving. The Battery for the army team will be Ransom pitching and Sass catching. A large crowd is expected to witness the game.

Yesterday's STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Smead Jolley, Red Sox—Walloped triple, double and single in four times up against Browns, scoring one run and driving in two.

Fritz Knothe, Braves—Hit homer with Berger on base for tying and winning runs against Reds and completed unassisted double play.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

If the baseball operators, in or out of the big leagues, have their ears to the current ground-swell of public opinion, they will take sufficient heed to steam up the ballyhoo for their pitchers, now giving one and all the most alluring entertainment they have had since the craze for slug-ging started to fade out.

Ruth, Foxx and their fellow blasters still are No. 1 attractions, of course, but the pitcher is fast coming back into his own, especially in the big leagues, where a less lively ball has helped restore some balance of power in his favor.

There have been more well-pitched ball games this spring than at any time since the days when my paternal guide took me to the ball grounds to see Mathewson or Johnson pitch, not to see any particular slugger of the day perform. If somebody like old Tim Lincecum or Wildfire Schulte banged a home run off Mathewson in those days, it was a rarity and something to write home about.

Ripe for Build-Up

No matter what the explanation now is, whether the pitchers have simply got the "jump" on the batsmen or whether there is even less liveliness in the official ball than last year, the fact is that the flinging duels are ready-made for more and better build-up.

The three-hit battle between Lefty Gomez and big George Earnshaw gave an unaccustomed thrill to fans who generally flock to the Bronx to see the big fellows bust 'em. They came away jabbering about the pitching.

They will flock back to the Yankee Stadium, as well as to other parks, if they can get a little advance notice when the main sharpshooters will be sent to the firing line.

Instead of keeping it a dark secret, why not make public announcement when Schoolboy Rowe is going to twirl against Lefty Grove, when Wes Ferrell is due to hook up with Earnshaw, or when Dizzy Dean is hooked to oppose Carl Hubbell?

In the old days, a tussle between Minor Brown and Christy Mathewson, advertised in advance, was sufficient to bring the fans to town from all nearby points. I seem to recall that President Taft once made special arrangements to be on hand for a renewal of that famous rivalry.

Should Advertise 'Em

One of the chief troubles with baseball in recent years has been that it took its notices in the public prints for granted. Box scores became an essential commodity for the sports pages and still are. But the baseball writers, all too frequently, have had to speculate on player matters that are quite properly public property and should be so considered.

It isn't necessary here to go into all the details or examples of shortsightedness on the part of baseball men. However, on this particular subject, they and their managers can do the game and its following a service by putting their pitching cards on the table and, may we suggest, in the advertising column, too.

Majority Favors
Ladysman to WinBy C. ROBERT KAY.
Associated Press Staff Writer.City Engineer
Reports on RainCity Engineer Arthur F. Hallman has furnished The Freeman with the following report on rainfall in Kingston during April, and also some data on rainfall data that will be of interest.

Rain Gauge Data.

During the first week of March of this year the record of public works arranged for the purchase of a rain gauge. The gauge was installed in the northwest corner of the roof of the city hall, this location having been shown to be most desirable by the observations made prior to the arrival of the gauge.

Precipitation at Maryland.

The result will go a long way toward determining the year's crop prospects, but several other factors will be of importance. Practically all the leading crop reports were qualified to indicate in another outstanding class a week hence in Maryland, in an event called the Precipitation.

Fans From All Classes

The huge crowd already gathered to watch the event will include persons high in political, social and business life, as well as those of plain citizens and horse followers. Some will have points of vantage in box seats and in the grandstands, while others will be massed along the sidelines.

GOLF PRACTICE

Practicing in golf should be made as interesting as possible if one is to benefit by it. Merely hitting the ball often becomes a monotonous task, and in such a state little progress is made. Bobby Jones overcomes this tendency of mere mechanical practice in iron play by varying the distances, trajectories and angles to the green.
He used the flag as the objective in such time up sessions, for the iron are employed fundamentally in playing shots to the putting surface. Playing too long from one spot tends to grow tiring and the shots after while more or less automatic. On the other hand, Jones mixes up the strokes by using a brassie or heavy iron at intervals. While Jones generally considers his practice shots as something other than a mere drill, he does not omit some other drill. MacDonald
Smith adopts an opposite procedure, that of practicing shots he is playing well. Smith's idea, obviously, is to create a good habit instead of a bad one. So feeling is golf form, however, that often playing and experimenting with a shot that is working well may in time give rise to complacency. For polishing up one's game instead of trying to correct a definite fault a short round of golf hitting three or four balls with all the clubs in the bag is advised.

Soss Melik, Local Artist, Wins Prize

Soss Melik, young artist from this city, was awarded the Mooney Scholarship Tuesday evening at the annual awards at the Art School of the National Academy of Design made at the closing exercises held in the academy's headquarters, Amsterdam avenue and 169th street, New York city.

The scholarship won by Mr. Melik is issued only once in two years and was established by Miss Ella Mooney in memory of her father, Edward Mooney, N. A. The purpose of the award is for travel and study abroad, entitling the winner to $1,500. Of this amount $100 is contributed by the academy towards miscellaneous expenses during travel. The Mooney Scholarship automatically entitles the winner to submit any desired composition in the international competition to represent the United States.

Prolonged ovation greeted Mr. Melik as he marched down the aisle to shake the hands of all professors on the platform, according to tradition in scholarship awards.

Edwin H. Blashfield, foremost mural painter in America and a past president of the National Academy, advised Mr. Melik to go first to London, the Tate and National Galleries, then to Paris to view the Louvre and Luxembourg, and down to Madrid to spend most of his valuable time in careful study of the works of Velasquez, then over to Rome and back to America.

Dolls Once Objects of Fear; to Ward Off Evil. Dolls, now toys for little girls, once were objects of fear or hate. They figured in the strange rites of black magic, and were specially cherished by women.

They were used to terrify and cast spells upon rivals, enemies, or unfortunate husbands. After certain "magical" ceremonies, it was thought that whatever was then done to the dolls would be felt by the man or woman they resembled. Sometimes, the doll was placed before a fire and slowly allowed to melt. As it melted, the bewitched person was supposed to die of fear.

According to Prof. Max von Bohlen, a distinguished German scholar, during the later Stone Age every family needed these dolls to keep off evil, and manufacturing them became an industry.

During excavations archeologists have found doll-sized idols made from all sorts of material, from stone to terra cotta, tin, and bronze. Some were cut out of sheet-iron, and look much like modern tin soldiers.

In early Asia and Egypt the tombs of important people were filled with quite a population of doll figures. These acted as substitutes for the usual wholesale human sacrifices. In other places, it was the custom for a bride to sacrifice her dolls to the goddess Diana just before the wedding.—Philadelphia Record.

Crumbling Church Is an Ancient Rome Reminder. Strange vestiges of the days of ancient Rome when paganism was being supplanted by Christianity have come to light amid the crumbling remains of primitive churches at Spoleto, Italy.

Archeologists have found that at the same time the famous Church of the Crucifix was built there in the fifth century, a pagan temple was being constructed a short distance away but was later changed into a Christian church.

Tremendous significance is attached to the archeological finds at Spoleto because they show how two civilizations overlapped, the dying paganism of the old Romans and the rising Christianity of the new.

Here, chiseled out of stone in the Third or Fourth century, has been found one of the original Roman laws dealing with life in the woods. It has been translated to read:

"Nobody is permitted to carry away that which belongs to this forest except on the day when the annual sacrifice is made. Anyone who sacrifices a bull to Jupiter on any other day will be guilty of a sin and subject to a fine of 300 coins."

Fine National Forest

The George Washington National forest is the largest in Virginia. It stretches for nearly 100 miles along the summit and slopes of the Shenandoah mountains and for a shorter distance along the Massanutten range. Its gross area is 802,700 acres. The land supports extensive stands of growing and mature timber. It has great value for watershed protection and recreational purposes. Numerous cities and towns draw their water supplies from its area and it constitutes an important part of the drainage area of the Shenandoah and Potomac rivers. Lying close to Washington and other large cities, its camping and outing facilities are well developed.

Has "Temple of Accuracy"

Close to the famous chestnuts of Bushy Park, near London, is what they tell the traveler is Britain's "temple of accuracy." It is not, contrary to a wide belief, an old stone mosque or house of worship but a modern laboratory spread over 50 acres, and in which everything from a clinical thermometer to the Schenker trophy seaplanes is scrupulously tested. Its gauges measure a ten-thousandth of an inch. Virtually every mechanical product the British exports finds its way to the "temple of accuracy" for a final word of approval.

Hens in the calendar record flocks of Iowa during the 1931-32 poultry year produced an average of 142.3 eggs per hen compared with a 135.5 egg average the previous year.

Trip Through Clinic Shows Care of Babies

Mr. Henry L. Bibby, Nurse Ann Cassidy and Junior League Members Join to Promote Better Babies for Kingston.

Wednesday afternoon was "open house" at the Junior League Clinic on Meadow street, and an inspection of the project at the invitation of the league, showed that this organization is doing a fine work to build better children for the city. The clinic has recently been painted and is made further attractive by window boxes filled with blooming flowers, which together with the sounds of children's voices is invitation enough to inspect the work of Kingston's young society women in the field of welfare.

A reporter attending the open house recorded the following story concerning the hospitality and work of the league:

One is greeted at the door by Mrs. George V. D. Hutton, Mrs. Robert Rodie, chairman of the Baby Welfare Committee, and members of the League, all in their white aprons, and busy with some specified task. In the waiting room were found on Wednesday, a number of young mothers and their babies. It was easy to guess who were the newcomers and those who were back for further inspection. The newcomers were shy and diffident and some of the babies, a bit frightened, were crying, while those who were returning after earlier visit—both mothers and children—had a spirit of confidence and cheerfulness.

As they enter the house, they are stopped at the doorway by Mrs. Barnard Joy who has charge of "Histories and Files." To the uninitiated it was amazing that so many things could be asked about a tiny baby or any child of pre-school age as Mrs. Joy records on a regulation form prepared by the Division of Maternity, Infancy and Child Hygiene of the New York State Department of Health.

A warning for the future of the child is found in the records when completed. No matter what health conditions may develop in the future life of the child, here are the fundamentals that will give the information that may account for later symptoms and because of their accessibility a later serious illness may be diverted or some tendency corrected as it could not possibly be without such records, and the very carefully kept files.

Because the clinics have been so largely attended in the past, a new system is now in vogue in that the mothers bring the children by appointment, thus being spared a long wait which they cannot afford in point of time and which gets the children tired and irritable.

After the record is made out or added to, as the case may require, the mother undresses the baby and Mrs. Alfred Schmid, in charge of the weighing and measuring of the babies, takes the little one and weighs the child in the special scales and measures it so that it is possible from time to time to know how much the child is gaining in weight and height.

Then little Jane or Jim is taken by Miss Ann Cassidy, R. N., the Junior League nurse, into the examining room where the best friend of all for Jane or Jim—Dr. Henry L. Bibby, the child specialist and physician in charge—has a welcome all ready for both the youngster and its mother.

Dr. Bibby is seeking just one thing, a healthy baby in each case, and he seems to have at his command not only a vast and overwhelming amount of knowledge about babies but a sure knowledge of the tiniest baby and how it thinks and feels, so that though the tiny child may cry at being punched and thumped, etc., it is little more than a minute before the little one knows that Dr. Bibby is its friend. Next comes the mother, often quite as shy and fearful as the baby, but because she is the mother, Dr. Bibby manages to get her cooperation and obedience to his directions for the betterment of the child's health.

Right here it might be well to state that no really sick children are taken in at the clinic but are sent to their family physician or a doctor recommended to them.

When Dr. Bibby has gained every bit of possible information about the child before he or she is brought to the clinic, then the examinations take place. Miss Cassidy, the nurse assisting. After the child has been examined and the mother instructed, the little one is dressed again, the record filed out to date, and the mother is told how soon she is to bring Jane or Jimmy back again and the next child receives the same attention.

There were 15 children scheduled for the clinic on Wednesday afternoon, but often there are more in the one afternoon. But this does not end the work or care of the clinic for the child, for Miss Cassidy visits the home, to see how the child is getting along, and whether or not the mother has entirely understood the doctor's instructions and his assistance upon their being carried out. Children who have once been taken to the clinic and have need of any follow-up care are watched by Miss Cassidy and Dr. Bibby until the child is old enough to go to school, a healthy, happy youngster well equipped to begin making his acquaintance with life and prepared with a sound body and healthy mind.

All of this highly skilled care may be had for the asking by any young mother not able to take her baby to some good physician to be looked after.

It must be admitted that there is a pretty bad depression, that the old world does seem upside-down in much of its thinking, but so long as there are such baby clinics carried on by such people as the Junior League members, providing such expert skill and care, to mothers expecting little ones or having them to be cared for, and such doctors and nurses to do the work, we can be assured that the heart of the American people is in the right place, and the future of the country is being saved.
